Muni Cable TV Criticized

By FRANK LAPIERRE

San Bruno's much-vaunted municipally owned cable television system has come under scathing criticism from former City Councilman Richard Griffith.

Griffith said he has no ax to grind with cable television systems. Rather, he leveled his barrage at the entry of municipal government into what he considers to be private enterprise.

There is no telling what fields of private business government might enter next, he said.

What compounds Griffith's unhappiness over the CATV system in San Bruno is the use of Water Department funds to finance the scheme. To date this CATV venture has soaked up more than $500,000 in water funds.

The money was "borrowed" from the water fund at some 7 per cent annual interest with the understanding it would be repaid in seven years.

But the outspoken city hall critic predicted the loan will never be repaid and will in fact "be swept under the carpet."

And after the cable network has been strung throughout the city "at a cost no one can accurately predict at this time," the fast-rising (700-plus feet high) multi-channel television tower atop San Francisco's Sutro Mountain may persuade CATV subscribers to drop the cable and go back to the antenna.

Experts cannot agree on whether or not the huge tower will improve reception in the "close-in" North County cities. Reception may, in fact, be worse.

Meanwhile there has been talk, mostly by critics of the San Bruno cable system, that the city has adopted a white elephant and is now realizing how complex such enterprises are.

A recently distributed flyer offers free hookups on a limited basis, a sort of "try-it-you'll-like-it" presentation. Additionally, the city has hired a public relations firm for $11 per new customer to push the system.

But the critics predict the Sutro Tower transmitters will not make it any easier to "sell" the public on the cable.

"All they (city administration) have to do if the venture falters is reach in and get some more money from the water department," Griffith said.

The city contends the cable system will not only make a profit, it will eventually lower property taxes with its surpluses. Bright and glowing pictures of things to come, thanks to the system, are painted by the system's supporters.

"I maintain it's unfair to operate a public utility at a profit. It should be provided to citizens at cost," Griffith says, adding, "Any and all profits from this should be returned to subscribers."

Griffith labels the whole issue of CATV "a device to confuse and befuddle taxpayers."

Sweeping Changes in Two S.S.F. Commissions

Major purges of the South San Francisco Personnel Board and Planning Commission were made Monday night, affecting eight posts.

The vote was 3-2. Councilmen William Borba and Patrick Ahern opposed the move.

The changes were announced well past 1 a.m., after an executive session following the Monday night council meeting.

Three appointments were made to the Personnel Board. Richard Battaglia, who had once served for six months before being ousted by Mario Gagliolo two years ago, was once again made a board member.

Battaglia fills in the post vacated by the recent resignation of Frank O'Brien, who had been on the board since January, 1960. Gagliolo, appointed in May, 1970, was kept on the board. So was Raymond Angeli, who was first appointed in November, 1958.

Another new face is Lawrence Coleman, taking the seat of Walter McNamara, who had been on the board since September, 1956.

The third replacement is Jack Jones, chief criminal investigator in the district attorney's office, replacing Gildo Fregosi, who was a member of the board since May, 1968.

The planning commission has five changes.

Wesley Slade was appointed to fill the slot vacated when former planning commissioner (now councilman) Gordon T.

Boblitt was elected to the top official city body.

Gene Mullen, South San Francisco High School government instructor, was named to replace William Botfield, who was made a planning commissioner in a controversial appointment in April, 1971.

Don Gamma, who had objected to Botfield's appointment, was named to fill the slot of Marcel Campredon, who had been a commissioner since May, 1968.

Another active resident, Homer Hale, was appointed to replace veteran Planning Commissioner John Gardner, a member of the commission since August, 1957.

And Joseph Mathewson was named to replace Joseph Zlatunich, a member of the board since May, 1966.

Councilman Ahern prefaced his "no" vote by saying he thought the changes should be made at the expiration of an individual's term, not in the middle of it.

Mayor Frank Mammini said there were 21 "qualified" applicants "with tremendous backgrounds" for city board and commission posts.

"This is the first time this city has really went out and sought (through applications) persons for boards and commissions," said Mammini. "And it's the first time we've had such a tremendous turnout."

Mayor Mammini, acknowledging that a change in boards and commissions had long been expected, said: "Commissions and boards do serve at the pleasure of the council."

In one other appointment, councilmen placed Mrs. Robert Teglia as a member of the city's parks and recreation capital improvement committee, at her request.

SSF to Make VTN Report Public Soon

By BOB PETERSON

South San Franciscans may soon know exactly how VTN Inc., the consulting engineering corporation that became city engineer, intends to save the city upward of $400,000 annually.

City Manager Gale Dreisbach Monday night said he will release that section of VTN's proposal made to the council, which he has heretofore kept secret.

The city council — particularly the three members who were recently elected on a ticket of honesty and integrity in government, Mayor Frank Mammini and Councilmen Warren Steinkamp and Gordon T. Boblitt has come under constant criticism for not revealing all the facts of the VTN proposal.

It has been continually and openly speculated that the only way savings can be made is through a reduction in personnel, the reason for keeping the report secret.

Dreisbach's decision to release the figures came after a blistering attack on the entire VTN operation by former engineering department employee Tom Moore, now temporarily with the city of Daly City.

Moore told the council that he had "read with interest" the accounts of the VTN operation in the press in which it had been stated there would be a potential $400,000 annual savings to the city.

He called the figure "ambiguous" because details have not been made public.

"I would like a copy of that proposal that shows how $400,000 in savings is going to be made," said Moore. "I have never seen it (broken down) in the paper. That seems rather odd."

Dreisbach leaned over and consulted with Fred Hull, VTN's Bay Area vice president and now South San Francisco's city engineer.

"I don't see why he can't have a copy of the proposal we gave the press," said Dreisbach. Hull concurred.

However, it was quickly pointed out that the proposal given the press was not complete, and that repeated attempts by the press to obtain a complete proposal had continually been thwarted.

Hull was asked point-blank whether any figures did in fact exist. He confirmed they did, but that Dreisbach would have to release them.

Dreisbach, before going into an executive session, said he would release that section of the VTN proposal later this week.

BART Exemptions Hits D.C. Taxpayers

Daly City taxpayers must now shoulder an additional financial burden with the exclusion of Bay Area Rapid Transit District properties from the tax rolls with the passage of SB 198 this week.

BART properties, consisting of several acres between Knowles Avenue and the Junipero Serra Freeway, were being assessed at some $30,000 annually. But this figure was far lower than assessments on the same properties prior to BART's entrance into the city almost 10 years ago.

The often-controversial rapid transit district—which has passed its operational target date of 1971—moved into Daly City using powers vested in it by the Legislature.

When BART crossed the San Francisco-San Mateo Counties' boundary line, 155 private homes were wiped out. These properties today would bring in about $62,000 to county coffers.

Senator John Nejedly (Contra Costa) successfully pushed his bill, SB 108, through the Legislature and past Governor Reagan this week. It prevents San Mateo County from taxing all BART properties.

Nejedly said unless this bill was passed San Mateos would be enjoying the best of both worlds — they would use BART and also collect property taxes.

And San Mateo County taxpayers had rejected the system twice in the past. Inasmuch as they opted to stay out of the district they should not collect such taxes, Nejedly argued.

San Mateo County taxpayers did not vote on joining BART at any time. Daly City Councilman Louis J. Papan points out. What they voted on two years ago, was a proposal drafted by the non-defunct Westbay Rapid Transit Authority for a mass busing service, he said.

When the offer to join BART was originally proposed, taxpayers of San Mateo County did not get an opportunity to vote on the matter. Their elected representatives on the Board of Supervisors voted.

Papan and other county officials fear Nejedly's bill may set a precedent on other "outside" properties in the county, such as the San Francisco County-owned watershed at Crystal Springs and the International Airport lands.

Whether the tax relief measure will have a detrimental effect on extending BART to the airport is still under study. However, it will not help "sell" the system in San Mateo County, officials fear.

The extension between Daly City — the present terminus for BART — and the airport has been under study for two years using a half-million dollar federal grant.

It was completed late last year and now awaits additional information concerning similar studies in the south end of San Mateo County to the Santa Clara County line.

Recently voters in Santa Clara County approved the concept of rapid transit and plans were being advanced for a BART-related system in that area. How the tax exempt status of BART will affect these efforts is not known.

There are pending agreements between Daly City, the county and BART, including policing and fire fighting responsibilities for the facility.

BART will employ special police to ride its trains.

Williams Gets Council Nod

Former Brisbane mayor and councilman James (Red) Williams on Friday was appointed to fill the vacated council seat of Nick Cook in a 3-1 vote of the city council.

Cook, elected to a four-year term on the city council in April, 1970, unexpectedly moved to Santa Barbara with his family last month because of illness in his family.

The council was not notified of Cook's decision to leave the city until this week.

Jefferson School Budget Soars; Tax Rate Gains

Taxpayers in the Jefferson Elementary School District will have to dig a little deeper again this year to meet the $10,210,631 budget — an increase of almost $1 million over last year.

In order to meet this increased 1972-73 budget the school board, in an unusual split vote this week, approved a 13½ cent per $100 increase in the property tax rate.

This amounts to some $11 on a $33,000 Daly City home in the Daly City area.

Within the total tax rate increase is a five-cent override for establishment of several opportunity classrooms designed to give individual instruction to selected children.

Trustees Mrs. Dorothy Adams and Mrs. Beverly Forrester said they voted against the budget because they felt that the increase was not warranted.

Mrs. Adams said she had asked the district's business office for "alternatives to cut the tax increase" in recent weeks and had not received this information.

And she felt state financial aid to the district was "supposed to be used to at least hold, and hopefully cut back, the tax rate."

The state's financial aid for this budget year thus far amounts to some $2,486,691 principal apportionment; $301,500 special education; $151,700 special purpose apportionment.

Teachers' expected pay hikes and fringe benefit increases are not included in the budget. A fact-finding report arrived at between representatives for teachers and the administration is expected to be forthcoming.

In other action, the board discussed establishment of self-contained classrooms at certain schools.

Superintendent Frank L. Greenwood said the classrooms will cost the district about $75,000 annually to fund and he recommended against their establishment.

Proposed combination of first and second grade classrooms at some schools was called "a crime against first graders" by trustee Adams.

Although the combination would save an estimated $50,000 annually, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Forrester felt first graders, who were in their initial year of learning, would be distracted by the more advanced teaching of second graders in their midst.

A child in the first grade would be made to feel inferior, Mrs. Forrester felt, when the teacher divided her attention between the two groups.

In an obvious slap at trustee Edward Tomasello, an employee of the city recreation department, Mrs. Forrester said she was confused by the board's action on this issue.

"I'm amazed that this district can afford $50,000 for recreation (there is a contract between the JESD and city for this amount) but not to educate children," Mrs. Forrester said.

Taxi Robber in Brisbane Wears Leg and Arm Casts

You can't tell a book by its cover, the saying goes.

And for that matter cab driver Jerald Mack Sallains of South San Francisco is having second thoughts today on sizing up prospective passengers.

He picked up a man and his female companion at International Airport about 3:30 a.m. Tuesday and was told to drive the couple to downtown San Francisco.

The man was wearing a heavy cast on his left leg and right arm and labored to enter the cab.

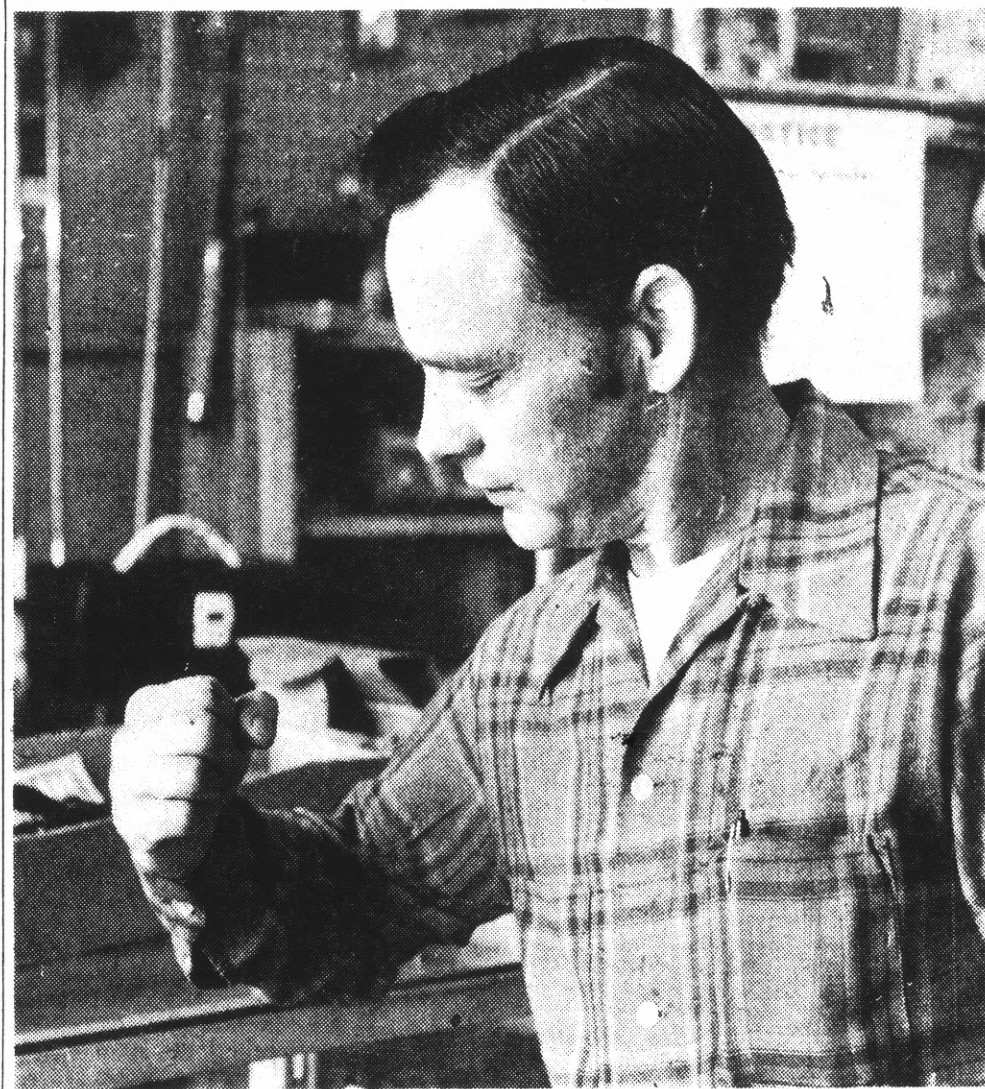

As the taxi drove through Brisbane, however, both passengers pulled knives and ordered Sallains to pull off the main roadway into Guadalupe Canyon Parkway. He was told to empty his pockets.

After forcing their victim out of the cab the handicapped hold-up man slipped behind the wheel and drove off.

Officer Bob Wiegner said police found the abandoned cab a mile away at the corner of Industrial and Bayshore boulevards. The holdup man, his female accomplice and Sallains' $8—are still missing.

It's Not Healthy to Rob This Merchant

You just don't walk in and stick up Waldo Smith, 47-year-old owner of the Colma Hardware store on Mission in Daly City.

It isn't healthy.

This morning two husky black men walked into Waldo's store about 9:40 a.m. and while pretending to shop around, one of the men pulled out a carving knife with an 18-inch blade and ordered the former Navy man to hand over his cash.

Instead, Waldo put all his 128 pounds into a solid punch to the holdup man's right eye and knocked him to the floor.

His accomplice ran from the building and is still at large.

Waldo struggled with his assailant to the counter where a .25 automatic is kept and ordered the man to "stay put" until police arrived.

The man Thomas Wells tried to flee from the store and Smith shot into the floor. When the man spun around and came at him, the would-be victim shot him in the right hand, police said.

That stopped him!

Police arrived a few minutes later and took the wounded man to Chope Hospital for treatment.

A similar incident happened two years ago at the store, Mrs. Smith recalled.

Two persons — a man and a woman — came into the store and while Waldo was waiting on the man, his female accomplice tried to tap the till.

When the shopkeeper yelled, the woman fled from the store. The male suspect, later given a 30-day jail sentence, was felled by one of Waldo's deadly punches to the head.

Where did he develop this mighty punch, Mrs. Smith was asked?

"From pushing around those big cotton bales back when he was a kid on the farm," she answered.

Many Staff Changes Set In Pacifica

By BOB PETERSON

The Pacifica City Council is studying staff and employee reorganizational changes meant to "improve the efficiency of city operations."

The proposed changes, which will come up for consideration at the August 14 council meeting, is nowhere near as sweeping or dramatic as the recent reorganization in South San Francisco that brought that city to the brink of a strike.

In Pacifica, five different classifications will receive different titles, along with different duties for those classifications, and one additional position will be created.

City Manager Jim Swayne assured the council during a Wednesday night budget meeting that no employee will have his job or salary affected by the proposed changes.

He added that the net effect would be to "reduce the number of chiefs and increase the number of Indians," which resulted in applause from Councilman Nick Gust.

Swayne noted the change has been discussed with the affected labor unions and he said he does not anticipate any problems with them.

It will be necessary, if approved by the council, to amend the budget to allow for the additional position of assistant director of finance. The council indicated it could be done and maintain the $2.29 per $100 assessed valuation tax rate for the 1972-73 fiscal year.

The new position would be paid at a scale of a low of $1,049 a month to a high of $1,277.

According to Swayne, duties performed by Federal Emergency Employment Act employee Gul Ramchandani brought about the realization of the necessity for the new position.

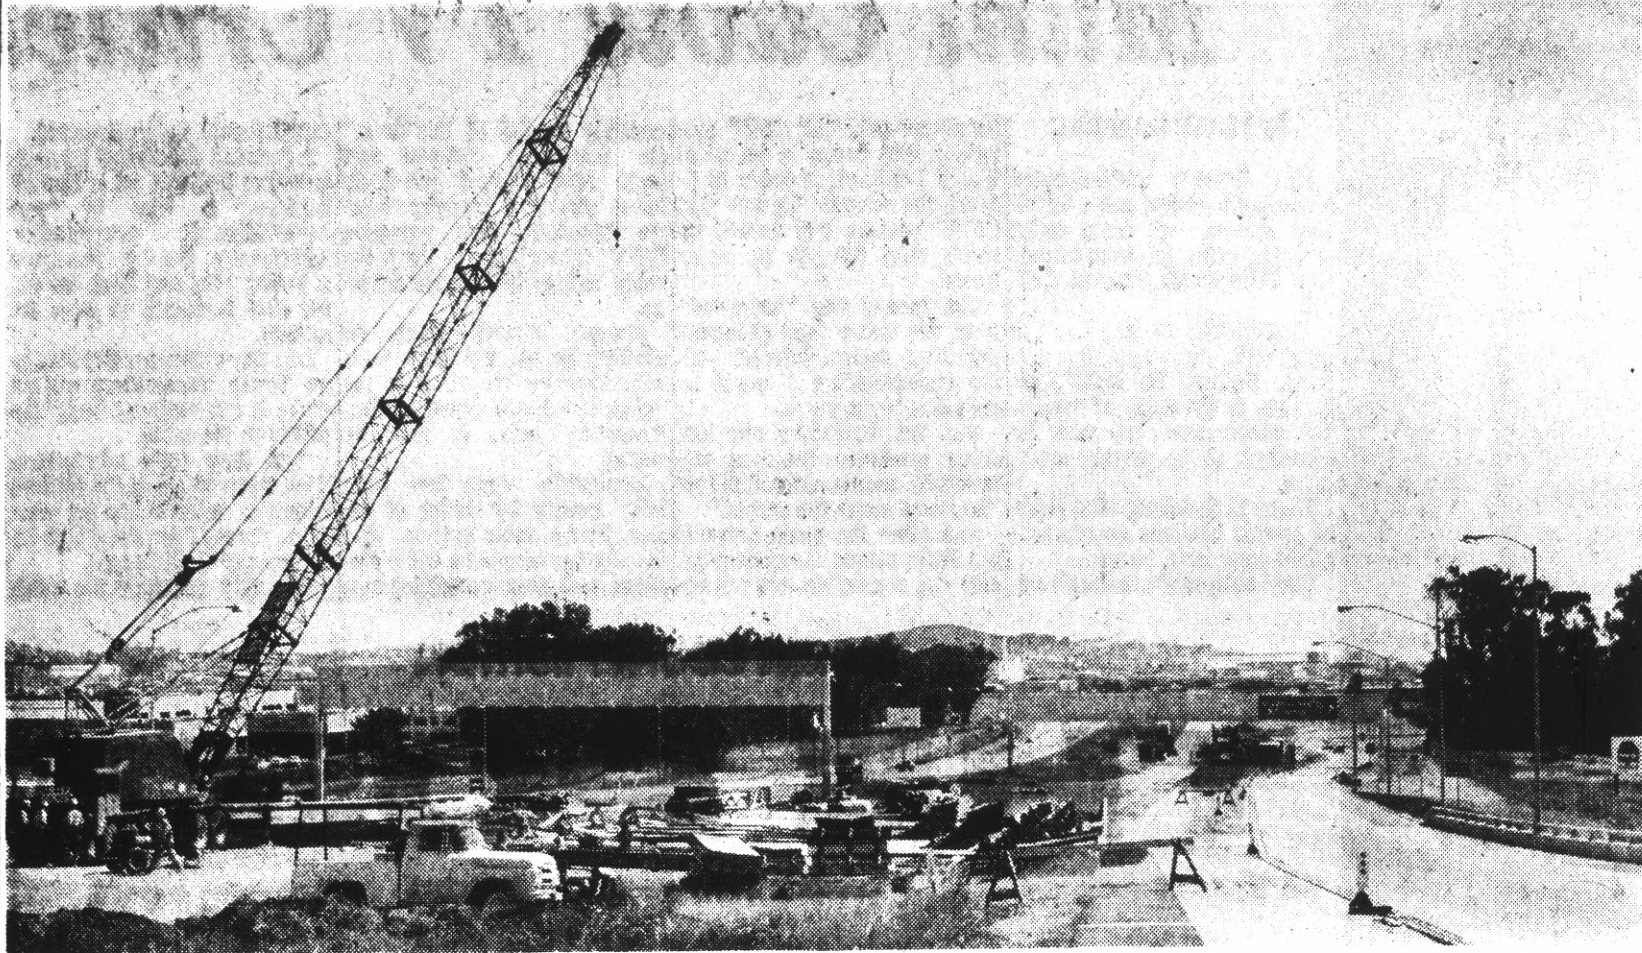

Ramchandani is now fulfilling director of finance duties because of Mark Savage's recent resignation to go with the Youth Service Bureau.

In addition, Director of Finance will become Director of Finance and Central Services, with a salary scale from $1,246 to $1,518 a month. Assistant City Manager will become Administrative Assistant, with a salary scale from $998 to $1,216 a month.

The Park Leadman position will become Park Foreman on a scale of $824 to $999 a month. The Public Works Leadman position will become Public Works Foreman on a scale of $824 to $999 a month. And the position of Buyer will be changed to Personnel Analyst-Buyer on a scale of $742 to $905 a month.

Swayne said that although the changes may mean that some individuals will be relegated to a lower paying scale they will continue to be paid according to their present status. That would mean total implementation of the new reorganization could be accomplished through attrition.

Swayne said the philosophy behind the change is to "concentrate the divisions serving internal needs into one department," hence the creation of the Department of Finance and Central Services.

THERE IS NO CONTROVERSY these days about this portion of Freeway 380 which — when completed — is expected to take most through traffic off of San Bruno Avenue. This freeway was supposed to provide a direct link to the Airport, as well as provide a freeway to freeway connection between Routes 280 and 101 — but work on it extension seems to have slowed down. Three minor projects are now in progress on 380: A half-completed $858,700 project providing additional ramps between 280 and 380, a half-done $1,616,000 project for a 1000-foot bridge over the railroad tracks and San Mateo Avenue for future dirt-hauling, and an $83,200 landscaping project just getting under way. A project for further expansion to Bayshore is still on the drawing boards and is slated for advertising next spring.

S.S.F. Ups Cable TV Rate

Western TV Cable in South San Francisco Monday night was granted a 95-cent-a-month rate increase effective September 1.

The increase granted by the council will put the basic rate at $4.95.

Ed Allen, chairman of the board of the cable company, had asked that an additional 30 cents a month be added automatically in 1973, jumping the rate to $5.25.

Councilmen, however, approved only the 95-cent increase and said that the firm would have to re-apply in 1973 for any desired additional increase.

Allen gave a brief synopsis of the history of cable in South San Francisco, pointing out that his firm has invested, including a half-million-dollar loss, $2 million in the system.

A public hearing on the rate increase originally set for August of 1971 was postponed because of President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

Allen based the need on "inflationary pressures." He pointed out that the $4 original rate when the system began in 1967 was "substantially" lower than any rate in the county. He said the state average is $6.72 a month.

According to Allen, underpinning in the newer tracts was going to be "expensive." He said $100,000 was spent last year for local origination (allowing city council meetings to be taped) and that new FCC regulations call for additional alterations.

Allen said that within five years the system must convert from a 12- to a 20-channel capacity, allowing one channel each for public, city government, and school use.

The city's consultant accountant firm of Ledwith, Chagris and Company examined Western TV's books to determine the justification for the rates. According to its report, Western TV lost (to the nearest $100) $55,800 in 1967, $228,900 in 1968, $146,700 in 1969, $48,700 in 1970 and $56,900 in 1971.

A letter from Robert Albright, president of Citizens for Responsible Government, recommended that a resolution be adopted that would require any licensee or franchisee requesting a rate increase to submit an independent, certified audit in support of the request.

City Manager Gale Dreisbach said he felt that the city's consultant CPA had fulfilled that requirement. No action was taken on Albright's request.

More About

Muni Cable Hit

ter funds is not new. Many cities make use of their water profits for capital improvements and expansion.

This does not make it any easier to swallow in San Bruno, Griffith and other opponents of the municipally owned system declare.

The reason Griffith feels the use of water funds in this case is designed to "befuddle taxpayers" is based, in part, on how the bookkeeping reflects where and how funds are applied.

For example, Griffith asks why should all San Brunans be required to pay for a utility — in this case cable TV — that will be used only by a limited number of residents? Money from the water department is being used to finance this system and "just about everybody is a water user in this city."

What is more, while the tax rate has held the line, the water rates have not.

This is a "political ploy," according to Griffith.

"Large property owners get by far cheaper this way," Griffith explained.

Griffith reasons that the owner of a large undeveloped piece of property which uses little or no water is better off than the average homeowner who pays for both property taxes and water. Thus an "average homeowner" and not the large property owner is carrying the financial burden of CATV, Griffith said.

"They (the council) say that the tax rate is being held on property taxes. But what they are not saying is how much they jump water rates periodically," Griffith charged.

Not only should the council hold the line on the tax rate this year, they should lower it because of the sales tax derived from the expanding Tanforan development, Griffith said.

The biggest concern local residents should have, according to Griffith, is the city's water system.

"If something requiring major repair crops up, where will the money come from," Griffith asks.

"Citizens would probably be asked to pass a bond issue or, heaven forbid, again raise the water rate," Griffith said.

In fact, Van Dusen says, not only is the municipally owned cable rate among the lowest in the state ($4.75 a month), the entire financial picture for the repayment is two years ahead of schedule.

As for the increase in water rates, Van Dusen and City Manager Jerry Minford blame increases in rates for San Francisco water, which the city buys for local users.

Asked if the city had enough money in the water department to meet contingencies, such as emergency repairs, Van Dusen replied:

"We have $140,000 in emergency funds in the water department, plus some $68,000 for capital improvements this year exclusive of the emergency money."

In June, the cable system collected $16,900 in revenues. Expenses were only $5,800, Van Dusen said.

North County Gets Million Dollar Grant

The County Board of Supervisors voted acceptance Monday of just over $1 million in federal grant money to develop mental health services for low-income residents in the North County region.

County Health and Welfare Director Dr. George Pickett recommended the action, stating the grant will provide inpatient, emergency and community based residential treatment services for persons covered under the Short-Doyle Act. The county's three other mental health regions already have such services.

Participating in the program, Pickett said, are Mary's Help Hospital, Guadalupe Health Center and the North County Mental Health Service.

The grant, he reported, is the start of an eight-year program in which money from the National Institute of Mental Health will be allocated on a declining scale.

The first year's operation will cost the county $26,000 in participating funds, he said, and that amount will be about $75,000 in the final year, with the state, hopefully, to pick up the major cost after that.

Staffing of the new program will be handled by existing personnel in the participating agencies, with the exception of the addition of one psychiatrist, one public nurse and one nursing aide, Pickett said.

North County Faces Bay Pollution Order

A decision whether to recommend a cease-and-desist order for San Bruno and South San Francisco to stop polluting the Bay is expected today from a hearing panel of the Bay Region Water Quality Control Board.

The board will consider the recommendation at a special meeting at Concord Thursday.

Local city representatives blamed the delay in cleaning up the Bay on failure of a state agency to act upon new sewer plant plans.

The hearing panel gathered evidence as to whether or not the joint sewage plant of the two cities has been committing violations at a quasi-judicial hearing held at San Bruno City Hall yesterday. Testifying were engineers for the two cities as well as for the WQCB.

Representing the cities was Sam Hackett, San Bruno attorney. His star witnesses were John Jenks, consulting sanitary engineer, and John Collins, operating superintendent of the joint plant.

The WQCB engineers testified that the effluent from the plant failed to meet the standards set up in 1970 on suspended matter, turbidity, coliform organisms, or toxicity.

A cease-and-desist order could lead to a ban on all building permits or on certain kinds of building permits.

Hackett admitted in the hearing that the cities are not meeting the standards. However, he insisted that they have done all they could.

Even prior to the new rules, he said the cities commenced work on engineering studies to improve their plant to meet those standards, and have taken a number of other interim steps which have resulted in improvement of the quality of the effluent — even in the face of considerable building in the two cities.

Hackett insisted that San Bruno and South San Francisco have reduced pollution in the past two years.

New Pillar Point Project Report Slated for Hearing

San Mateo County Harbor District General Manager William M. Kerrigan, outlining current development plans for the proposed Pillar Point building project, will be the subject of a public meeting by the harbor district board of directors next Tuesday, August 15 at 8 p.m. at the Half Moon Bay Library.

The interim report appears to be the documentation for an all-out district effort to get public support for the plan, whose price has gone up and schedule set back since the plan to turn Pillar Point Harbor into a large recreational complex was announced in April, 1971.

Major changes so far have been caused by environmental factors. Construction of two earthen moles would be dirt trucked in, not filled "in the dry" in cofferdams, because of a liquid aquifer, or water pocket, under the building site.

The fill could come from several nearby sites, but the El Granada quarry seems one of the best prospects, Kerrigan said.

Local opposition to the harbor project, which could berth 1150 pleasure and 65 fishing boats, has included complaints about the dirt haul operation through El Granada, which would be required.

In the mid-Coastside for several years, would be a problem for this large commercial development too, and Kerrigan said the district might look toward annexation to Half Moon Bay and de-annex from the Granada Sanitary District.

Highway Widening Of Bayshore Endorsed

Widening to eight lanes of the remaining six-lane portion of Bayshore Freeway in San Mateo County, and continuation of the San Bruno Freeway to the Coastside in 1974-75, are among the recommendations of the county's Greater Transportation Committee which County Engineer S. H. Cantwell is proposing that the County Board of Supervisors approve Tuesday.

The recommendations, adopted by the committee last month, will, if endorsed by the board, be presented to the California State Chamber of Commerce at its biennial public hearing on highway projects September 27 at 3:30 p.m. in the Robin Hood Lodge, Half Moon Bay.

Recommendations of the Greater Transportation Committee:

Bayshore Freeway — Widen 6.5 miles between Whipple Avenue, Redwood City, and the Santa Clara County line to eight lanes; make special studies to correct congestion points at all interchanges, particularly as to widening the Broadway, Millbrae, Peninsula, and Marsh Road interchanges to four lanes; with special attention to the proposed Hillside Boulevard — Butler Road interchange in South San Francisco.

San Bruno Freeway — Proceed with final plans for right-of-way acquisition and construction of a multi-lane freeway from Bayshore to El Camino Real, including a San Bruno interchange and a main entrance to San Francisco International Airport; approve final plans and construct to freeway standards from Junipero Serra Freeway to the Cabrillo Highway in Pacifica.

Nineteenth Avenue Freeway — Construct a multi-lane freeway from Skyline Boulevard to Cabrillo Highway in Half Moon Bay, 5.2 miles, with provisions for bicycle lanes; construct a four-lane conventional highway, with provision for bicycles, from Ralston Avenue to Cahill Ridge, two miles; improve the ultimate alignment project at the Bayshore interchange west of Foster City.

El Camino Real — Reconstruct to six-lane major city street standards from Arroyo Drive northward in South San Francisco.

Cabrillo Highway — Prepare final plans for widening to six lanes from Skyline Boulevard to Manor Drive; prepare final plans for construction to multi-lane freeway standards from one mile south of Sharp Park Road to Nineteenth Avenue Freeway; utilize scenic highway standards in any future planning for construction from Half Moon Bay to the Santa Cruz County line.

Skyline Boulevard — Prepare final plans and commence right-of-way acquisition for construction as a multi-lane arterial from Edgemar Freeway interchange standards for future planning from Nineteenth Avenue Freeway to the Santa Cruz County line.

Hunters Point Freeway — Complete route location studies and coordinate with a possible south bay crossing from the San Francisco County line to James Lick Freeway.

D.C. Avoids Use Of 'Redevelopment'

By FRANK LAPIERRE

The Daly City Redevelopment Agency appears to be undergoing a rhetorical renaissance when it comes to discussing redevelopment in that city.

At a Monday meeting of the agency project planner Fred DeJarlais pointed out what was labeled incorrect media reporting of a zone now under study for possible rehabilitation in the area of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District station on Knowles Avenue.

News accounts of a recent economic valuation report of a 66-plus acre "study area" bordered by San Jose Avenue, Juniper Serra Boulevard, Vista Grande Avenue, Mission Street, and the city limits, used what is now considered to be a frightful word — redevelopment — in describing a proposed project in that section of the city.

Daly City has taken to other wording in describing the principal area contained in the economic valuation data prepared by Donald C. Gardner Associates.

Seemingly each time "redevelopment" crops up in conversations on the subject, the city staff quickly offers a more definitive (they feel) label to the project. Use of such palatable terms as "primary area," or "project area," are being used more frequently while "redevelopment" is being pushed farther into the background.

The Agency at its Monday night meeting with planner DeJarlais scolded him for distributing Gardner's economic valuation report without giving them a courtesy copy.

DeJarlais was directed to insure that in the future all such reports be handed over to the Agency Board either before or at the same time they are issued to members of the RA Citizens Committee.

Board member and Councilman McRobert Stewart informed his fellow members he attended a meeting of the Mission Merchants last week at which the report was discussed. Not having seen the report he was at a disadvantage to defend its contents.

(The report noted, among other things, it would cost some $20 million to acquire all 66-plus acres, including roadways, and the property could be sold for an estimated $19.5 million. This figure was arrived at if the entire area was razed. However, the report pointed out this razing was not likely.)

Councilmen Paul Hupf and Bernard Lycett likewise informed DeJarlais "something as formal as this" should also be given to the Agency board. This will enable them to have information on progress "as it develops."

In other action, the Agency was informed the Mission Merchants have agreed to cooperate in distributing questionnaires to merchants along Mission Street.

Chairman Lycett suggested the Agency look at the questions to be sent out by the Merchants before they are distributed. He said one of the biggest concerns of the city are "absentee owners" along the street.

San Bruno Planners Grant Permit to Reopen Station

San Bruno Planning Commissioners spent an hour and eight minutes Monday in granting two local residents a use permit to reopen a closed-down service station.

Spokesman for the partners, Thomas P. Marchlevski of Sneath Lane, told commissioners that he had leased the station from local investor Joseph Welch. He had no idea that there would be any restrictions on its use, he told commissioners.

Before signing the lease, he said, he called up the city clerk's office and was told he could get a business license to operate a service station. After signing the lease and investing some $10,000 — with his partner James W. Christian of 3081 Summit Road, San Bruno — they found out that they needed a use permit from the planning commission first.

He also found out that he would have to install 1000 square-feet of landscaping (10 per cent of area). The station, a former Richfield station located at San Bruno Avenue and Mills Avenue, had no landscaping at all, previously. Marchlevski was asking to be permitted to landscape just 400 square feet.

The partners were also notified by the commissioners that they would have to abide by a series of other restrictions, most notable being a ban on junked cars being left in sight.

Marchlevski kept objecting, claiming that other service stations in San Bruno do not have to abide by such restrictions and that many are flagrant violators.

City Manager Gerald Minford announced that a city enforcement program would soon take care of the violators. Older service stations, operating before current rules went into effect, do not have to abide by them, he admitted.

A series of questions by the commissioners established the fact that Marchlevski and Christian hoped to perform major repairs — and the commissioners split over whether they should be permitted to do so.

"A garage is a garage and a service station is a service station," declared Leon Miller, "and they should each be applied for as such."

Commissioner Jim Hensel moved to approve the permit, subject to control of lights, landscaping according to the ordinance (1000 square-feet), turning the bell off at 10 p.m., closing at midnight, and a ban on wrecked cars.

Commissioner Henry Hein moved to amend the motion so that major repairs be excluded and Miller seconded him. Commissioners split on the motion, and Chairman Girvin Whitney voted no. They then voted on Hensel's motion, and again they split, with Whitney voting yes.

They will next have to have a landscaping plan approved, at the August 21 meeting.

Bruno Rape Victim Is 11

An 11-year-old San Bruno girl was raped Monday when a motorcyclist accosted her as she was in the laundry room of a Skyline area apartment house folding clothes, at about 5:25 p.m. according to San Bruno police.

Police reported that the man threatened the girl with a knife. He was described as having straggly shoulder-length hair and a full beard.

The victim's mother, who was upstairs, heard her daughter screaming hysterically. The man escaped down Skyline Boulevard on his motorcycle. Pacifica police reported later that they had stopped and questioned a man fitting the description, and then let him go.

New organic hair remover

Hair's off in minutes, stays off for weeks.

Leaves skin beautifully smooth, free from hair... without shaving, waxing, using messy creams or foams or resorting to electrolysis.

There is now a new way to remove unwanted hair completely from face, arms, thighs, legs, wherever — and keep it off longer. You use a gentle, odorless organic compound, called Delila, and the results are simply sensational.

Delila actually lifts out the whole hair from the follicle... leaves your skin beautifully smooth and free from hair for weeks.

The little extra time Delila may take at first won't matter once you find that you can really forget about hair removal... yes, for weeks.

There are no blunt ends. No prickly stubble, no nicks or cuts. And there's no quick grow back. When hair eventually does come in, it seems sparser and baby soft.

Delila™ Natural Organic Hair Remover. Ideal for teenagers, too. $5.95 at our cosmetic counters.

Pacifica Closes Karczewski Case

Pacifica's council has washed its hands of Ray Karczewski.

"No more time will be spent in reviewing his allegations," said a "position paper" specially prepared by the council.

Karczewski is the retired Pacifica policeman who started a private patrol service in Pacifica and has charged, among other things, that he is being harassed by the police, his business is being intereered with and he has been given inadequate hearings before the council.

According to the position paper, Karczewski's "feelings of persecution are without foundation," and for that reason "the case is closed."

Karczewski, who says he is not finished in his quest for a full impartial investigation of the Pacifica Police Department, has been told that he will have to prove his allegations against the department legally.

The council spent two evenings reviewing a 495-page report compiled by Police Chief Mel Nelson before coming to its conclusion that there is no need to investigate the department.

It was noted that Karczewski's charges earlier were not considered by the Grand Jury or the district attorney.

"The city council feels he (Karczewski) is taking up valuable council time and city staff time with repetitious complaints which are usually in the form of a very general nature without specifics or supporting documentation," said the position paper.

The council said it had been "more than fair" in dealing with Karczewski, including meetings with him by the city staff, the city manager and individual councilmen "in ef-orts to resolve (Karczewski's) complaints over the past few years."

Two incidents were acknowledged to have "some basis" by the council. One was when an officer was making a burglary report of a client of Karczewski's and apparently left information out. The officer was reprimanded.

The other incident was when a police technician was investigating a crime scene and used abusive language to instruct Karczewski to keep out of the way. Karczewski later received an official apology.

According to the paper, the council based its decision also on the "personal experiences" through Operation Night Watch (in which residents accompany policemen on their duty shifts), on weekly activity reports from the department, and on "numerous compliments" about the police department's operations.

Other reasons listed include the fact other cities choose Pacifica's men as chiefs (Capt. Ray Shipley was most recently named chief at Eureka), on the department's established procedures for follow-up when complaints are received, the fact that errors are not condoned but

THE POST
Wednesday, August 9, 1972

noted and corrected, and a "favorable response" to a 1971 community questionnaire. Karczewski meanwhile accused the council of predetermining its decision "behind closed doors" without listening to a public documentation of his charges. He said he had withheld documents backing up his charges pending a full open hearing, and promised "this is not the end."

Two Longs Make a Fight

ASSEMBLY CANDIDATE Theodore Long (right) talks over campaign, with attorney brother, John Long, recently.

Long for the Assembly has taken on a dual meeting. Ted Long, a San Bruno attorney, is the Republican candidate for the State Assembly in

ORDNANCE

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md. — Army Private Dan P. Haskell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Selby Haskell, 1423 Perez Drive, Pacifica, recently completed an eight-week metal body repair course at the U.S. Army Ordnance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

He learned to repair and rebuild metal body parts for wheeled and lightweight tracked combat and tactical vehicles. He also received instruction in gas welding on body components, exterior finishing of metal bodies and glass cutting.

He entered the Army in February, 1972, and completed basic training at Ft. Dix, N.J.

The soldier is a 1971 graduate of Terra Nova High School.

the Twenty-seventh District.

Now his brother—and campaign manager—John Long, 27, has announced his candidacy for Assembly delegate to the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association.

If he is elected, he will be the youngest ABA member to hold that post.

The ABA convention is being held in San Francisco August 10-17.

The 15-member House of Delegates is the policy-setting body of the ABA and meets twice a year. Five delegates are elected to three-year terms each year.

No one under the age of 30 has ever been elected.

However, John Long, like his brother, is not unknown. He sat in the House as a law student and represented the student association of the ABA for two years. He appears to have some influential support, including that of John Finger, past ABA president.

John was involved with the ABA before he entered law school because of his brother's active role in it. His involvement deepened when he was in law school, primarily because at that time there was a focus on campus and student dissent. He served on a special commission created to evaluate those problems. More noted representatives on the commission included Ramsey Clark, former U.S. attorney general.

John now is involved in a program designed to educate youth about law.

Chase Hurls Debate Dare

Charles E. Chase, Republican candidate for election to Congress for the Eleventh District, today issued a challenge to his opponent, Leo J. Ryan, to engage in a series of debates during the forthcoming general election campaign.

"During the primary election campaign," Chase said, "Ryan made a promise to debate his opponent in the general election. Having heard nothing further from Ryan since then, I have taken the initiative to demand that he make good on that promise and join me in a series of political debates during the forthcoming campaign."

"I feel that this series of debates is of particular importance in this congressional district for two reasons. First, we are competing for an open congressional seat which has no incumbent. Second, my opponent has strongly endorsed the candidacy of Senator George McGovern for president, thus creating an ideological gap between my moderate stance on the issues and Ryan's radical positions on such issues. I hasten to add that Ryan's stance is perfectly consistent with the radical positions he has taken on issues of an ideological nature in the past."

Chase concluded his statement by saying:

"If Ryan, for any reason, ducks this challenge, then I say that he forfeits any credibility that he may have, and he does not deserve any further attention as a viable candidate in this race."

Art Theft in SSF Reported

A burglar, who apparently loves art, or likes to see sad women, made off with a 2-by-3 foot watercolor painting described as "a woman with a sad expression" from a South San Francisco home on Albright Way Sunday.

Police said the picture was valued by its owner at $200. The theft apparently occurred sometime during the day Wednesday, with no signs of forced entry, according to police.

Old Flat Holds Valuable Items

Authorities report that a Montara man who shot and killed himself Tuesday had a number of valuable antiques, perhaps worth $10,000, in his quarters where he lived alone on the second floor of the old Le Conte School building.

Frederic W. Fuller, 39, a computer specialist for a wholesale hardware firm, was found dead in the front seat of his car parked in a field near Eighth Street in Montara Tuesday afternoon.

Sheriff's Deputy Robert Mortimer reported that Fuller had shot himself in the chest with a rifle which was found between his knees.

Fuller's estranged wife, Colleen Fuller, of Pacifica, told investigators that her husband had been despondent over personal problems for sometime.

Coroner's Supervisor Robert Cole said he was informed that antiques worth as much as $10,000 were found in Fuller's flat in the old school building at Sixth and Le Conte.

In addition to his wife, Fuller is survived by two children, Mia and Lars Fuller; a stepson, Kent Prescott; his mother, Mrs. Jean Fuller, of Santa Rosa, and a brother, Kent Fuller.

No funeral services were held. Cremation was at Skylawn Memorial Park under the direction of Dutra Chapel.

Expanding Authority

A bill by Assemblyman Dixon Arnett allowing the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors to appoint two additional commissioners to the County Housing Authority has been signed into law by Governor Reagan.

"The bill not only permits increasing the number of commissioners," Arnett said "but stipulates that one be a housing authority tenant and the other a senior citizen over 62 years of age. I believe the bill fits the needs of our county in that our senior citizen population has increased dramatically in the last decade and low and middle-income housing is becoming increasingly scarce."

Murder Suspect in Melee

Stanley O. Whitebread, in county jail on a murder charge, had to be forceably restrained Sunday after he swung wildly at three officers, the San Mateo County Sheriff's office reported today.

Deputies said Whitebread, 27, became loud and boisterous and threw his evening meal on the floor. They said he kept trying to grab deputies through the

Papan Slaps Long on Charge

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Democratic Assembly candidate Louis J. Papan has accused his Republican opponent in the November general election, Theodore Long, of "grasping at straws in a cheap attempt to grab newspaper space."

Papan's charges came close on the heels of Long's suggestion that Papan publicly renounce "developers who have made financial contributions to his primary campaign."

These contributors, acknowledged by Papan, include an official of the Foremost-McKesson company (developers of San Bruno Mountain, Henry Doelger Builders, and Pacifica Councilman Nick Gust.

"All these people have very strong and definite financial interests in seeing legislation influenced in favor of unneeded freeways and high-density populations to insure huge profits at the expense of the voters and residents of the district," Long said.

Papan, in denouncing Long's attack as "a cheap attempt to discredit me," said Doelger no longer is building in the North County and is, in fact, trying to phase out his business interests. Gust is "a long time personal friend," and there have been no discussions with Foremost-McKesson over development of San Bruno Mountain.

"I had nothing to do with the ($200) contribution from the (Foremost-McKesson) official. This was accepted by my campaign staff," Papan said.

"If (Long) thinks $200 is going to make a difference in the way I think and act on an issue, he is way off base," Papan added.

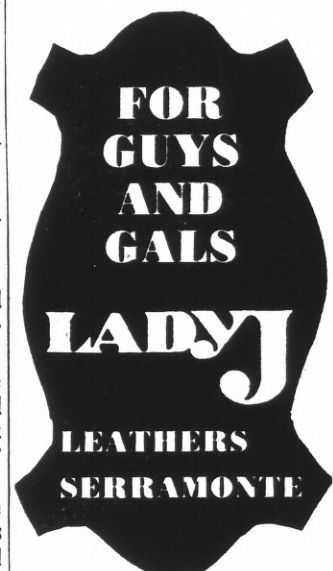

Long said Papan has refused to debate him on local cable television.

"The least he can do is let the voters know that he has not sold out to the large interests that are financing his campaign," Long said.

Papan expressed "extreme disappointment" over Long's "attempt at cheap politics" and "his insults directed at the integrity of every person who runs for public office."

"Apparently Long can't see that people may contribute money to a candidate of their choice in the interests of maintaining good government," Papan said.

Newly Engaged Couples

LINDA LEWIS, JAMES MARTELLA

Lewis-Martella

A dinner a week ago today at the El Rancho Restaurant was the occasion for Mr. and Mrs.

George Richard Lewis of Millbrae to announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda, to James Martella. He is the son of Mrs. Maryann Martella of San Bruno.

Linda and James are graduates of the College of San Mateo. Before entering CSM she studied at Capuchino High School and he was enrolled at Crestmoor High School.

Linda is the sister of Steven Lewis and the granddaughter of George S. Lewis. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Martella are her fiancé's aunt and uncle.

Hobbs-Jones

The Chapel at Hamilton Air Force Base has been reserved for a December 23 wedding by Barbara Ann Hobbs, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Gregory James Hobbs of San Rafael, and Jeffrey Robert Jones. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gerald Jones of Millbrae.

The bride-elect was graduated from the American Community School in Beirut, Lebanon and is now in her senior year at the University of California at Santa Cruz where her fiancé also is enrolled. He also studied at Mills High School.

Barbara is the sister of Gregory, Edmund, William and Joseph Hobbs. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edmund O. Rhodes of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Jeffrey has one sister, Jessica M. Jones, and one brother, Joel C. Jones. Mrs. Marjorie White of Burlingame and Mrs. Genevieve Jones of Belmont are his grandmothers.

Gomez-Caporale Rites Performed

Southern California was the honeymoon destination of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Caporale who were married Saturday afternoon at the Church of Visitation in San Francisco.

The bride is the former Diana Marie Gomez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gomez of Brisbane who hosted the wedding reception at the South San Francisco Rod and Gun Club. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Josephine Caporale of San Francisco.

Diana was escorted by her father to the altar where the Rev. Thomas Lacey conducted the 3:30 p.m. ceremony. She recited her vows in a long dress of white crepe embellished with flowers and carried white carnations and baby's breath.

Heather Sullivan, her maid of honor, wore a long, flowered print and carried orange carnations. Floral prints were also chosen by the three bridesmaids, Donna Dean, Linda Hozzetti, and Thelma Gonzales. They carried lavender carnations as did the flower girl, Tina Gomez.

Jerry Bruno was the ring bearer.

Bill Hewins was best man and guests were seated by Cliff "Kip" Mozzetti, Gene Tognetti, and Joe Bruno.

The new matron attended St. Paul's High School in San Francisco and City College of San Francisco. She is the sister of Janet, Lisa, Tina, and Matt Gomez.

Larry attended Riordan High School and City College. He and his bride will live in Daly City.

Mr. and Mrs. Wirt W. Wooley of San Francisco were honored recently on their sixtieth wedding anniversary. The Wooley's local relatives include a son, Kenneth Wooley of Millbrae, and a grandson, Mark Lewin Bottimore of San Bruno. The party in their honor was given at the Forest Lodge in San Francisco.

Myrleen Ann Maga Marries

Myrleen Ann Maga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice James Maga of San Mateo, recently became the bride of Joseph Mario DaSanMartino. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DaSanMartino of South San Francisco.

The newlyweds exchanged vows at St. Gregory's Catholic Church and greeted guests at a reception at the American Legion Hall in Redwood City. They honeymooned in Southern California and are now living in San Mateo.

Myrleen said her vows in the ivory brocade gown her mother wore on her wedding day. Her honor attendant was Jeanette Assereto and Donna Hotovec and Janet Arvio, her cousins, shared bridesmaid duties with Susan DaSanMartino, Joseph's cousin. Lori Hotovec, another cousin of the bride, was the flower girl and Steven Hotovec carried the rings.

Frank Baldanzi was his cousin's best man and James Maga, the bride's brother, seated guests with Mario DaSanMartino, Joseph's brother, Sal Bologna, his uncle, and John Baldanzi, his cousin.

The bride was educated at Aragon High School and the College of San Mateo and the bridegroom studied at Lincoln High School in San Francisco.

Evening College Has Catalogs, New Courses

Skyline College's fall 1972 evening college catalog-schedule brochure is now available free of charge in all San Mateo County libraries and at the college, 3300 College Drive, San Bruno.

All persons interested in attending the fall classes can pick up the catalog and register-by-mail as the registration form is in the brochure.

This coming term the evening college offerings will be highlighted by three new offerings from among the more than 100 courses in the catalog.

The three new programs are:

Art 41a — Elementary Photography — Thursdays, 7-10 p.m. — Bldg. 1, room 320. The prerequisite for this course is the possession of a camera. Included in this course is the use of exposure meter, filters, print papers, formulas and processing, lenses and shutters. Also will be the study of lighting, enlarging, printing, as well as individual projects.

Media Technology I — Educational Media: Environments for Learning. Class meets in Bldg. 1, room 123 from 6-10 p.m. on Wednesdays. It has a prerequisite for teaching or teaching-related experience or Education I or consent of the instructor. The course includes the study and use of slides, transparencies, audio tapes, films, closed circuit TV for classroom use or individualized instruction. Students will produce and utilize media materials.

Real Estate — Business 87 — Legal Aspects of Real Estate and Business 88 — Real Estate Finance. Both three-unit courses on Tuesday and Thursday evenings respectively are designed to prepare individuals to enter the real estate field as well as personal knowledge. Each course is a three-class hours and meets the State requirements for the Broker's examination.

For further information about the evening programs call 355-7000, extension 301 during the day and 355-6580 or 355-6022 after 6:30 p.m.

Skyline Applications Available; Test Dates

Skyline College currently is accepting applications for admission for the fall term between 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Building 1 at the registration desk.

In order to facilitate the applications procedures, the college also will have two placement testing dates available on August 12 and 26. Tests will be held in Building 1, room 131 starting at 8 a.m. Evening College students also will have the opportunity to take the English test on August 15 at 6:30 p.m., same place.

This coming term Skyline College will have career (two-year) programs in such fields as aeronautics (powerplant); commercial art, art painting; accounting and finance; general business; clerical business; business management; business merchandising; business secretarial; cosmetology; inhalation therapy; nursery school; and recreation education.

At total of 53 transfer programs to four-year and specialized colleges also are being offered by the college. They include such diversified fields as agriculture; biochemistry; criminology; drama; pre-dental and pre-medical; pre-legal; foreign languages; pre-optometry and pre-pharmacy; physical education; wild life conservation; journalism; social sciences; speech and English; and education.

The Skyline College catalog is now available in the SC bookstore at 75 cents or by mail $1. The schedule of classes for the term also is ready and is available at the Office of Admissions and enrollment at Skyline College call a.m. to 4 p.m.

Altar Trips Are Made By Peninsula Couples

Citta-Fain

A honeymoon in Carmel followed the recent marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Thomas Fain which took place at St. Roberts Church in San Bruno. A reception followed in the Marquee Room of the Burlingame Hyatt House.

The bride is the former Janice Marie Citta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Citta of Millbrae. She was graduated from Capuchino High School and is now attending Bay City College of Dental Assistants.

When Janice walked to the altar with her father, she was dressed in an old-fashioned white lace gown with ruffle trim. Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Gina Drake who set the style of dress for the bridal party in an old fashioned bright apple green voile dress.

Secondary attendants were Lynne S. Gunn, Kathy Ward and Jeanne Fain. Janelle Marie Drake was the flower girl for her aunt's wedding.

Neil Fain was the best man for his brother. Both are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Fain of San Bruno. Brian Fain, another brother, seated guests with Stephen Drake and Dan Malhe. Stephen Lee Drake Jr., the bride's nephew, carried the rings.

Wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Lindecker of San Francisco, Stephen's grandparents, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Genovese of San Jose, the bride's grandparents.

Tonelli-Bohnert

Spain, France, Italy and Switzerland were stops on the honeymoon itinerary of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Michael Bohnert Jr. (Linda Darlene Tonelli) who are now living in San Francisco.

The newlyweds exchanged vows at Our Lady of Mercy Church. A reception followed at the Airport Marina Hotel.

Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dino H. Tonelli of Daly City. She has four sisters, Diane Rhein and Sandra Tonelli, who were her honor attendants, and Carol and Gina Marie Tonelli who shared secondary attendants' duties with Judi Luttringer and Carol Petrini. Joey Tonelli, a cousin, carried the rings.

Grant Irwin Stuart was the best man for the bridegroom who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bohnert of San Francisco.

THE EDWARD BOHNERTS (Linda Tonelli)

THE THOMAS HARANGS (Rachelle Gantenbein)

cisco. Jerrold and Paul Tonelli, brothers of the bride, seated guests with Mark Sultana, Robert Belous, John Cingolani and Edmund Rhein, Linda's brother-in-law. Edward's cousin, Manuel Daniele, and Paul Tonelli, another brother of the bride, served as altar boys.

Gantenbein-Harang

The San Bruno home of Richard V. Gantenbein was the setting for the reception which followed the marriage of his daughter, Rachelle Maria, and Thomas Charles Harang. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harang of South San Francisco.

Rachelle is also the daughter of the late Joanna Gantenbein. An alumna of Crestmoor High School, she is now attending Skyline College where her husband, a Serra High School graduate, is also enrolled.

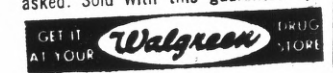

When the bride said her promises, she was dressed in a floor length organza and eyelet gown styled with a wattleau train. A floor length lime green satin dress was worn by her sole attendant, Kathy Oertel of San Bruno.

According to Friends Outside, the horizons of such youngsters must be widened to include greater contact with the world beyond their block.

At present the only contact some of these children have with the successful world is through the school teacher, the social worker or the probation officer that visits their home. All are dedicated people but people with many responsibilities, and, parenthetically, all are persons who exercise some form of control over them as individuals or as families.

It is not unusual to find whole families living in mortal fear of police, landlord, social worker, teachers, neighbors and probation department employees.

What is desperately needed by each child in such straits is a little fun and a lot of friendship and Friends Outside tries to provide both by involving the mothers in the nursery school program and by enlisting college students to work with teen-agers.

Merely wanting to help isn't enough, Friends Outside insists that the college student volunteers understand and subscribe to the organization's program which is, basically, to convince each teen-ager that someone cares about him/her as an individual. The organization can do little about actual poverty but the thrust of the program is to counteract the psychological poverty.

The volunteers are required to get to know their teen-agers as persons. They call in the homes believing they go out of necessity to try to salvage a young person who is being punished for being born into the wrong family. How? Friends Outside espouses the position of being a good friend... interested but never inquisitive. They believe by listening carefully they will learn why the youths are behaving as they do and, once understanding the causes, they can perhaps begin to effect some cures.

According to official pronouncements by the board of directors the greatest danger lies with the volunteer attempting to do too much. The need is so great many volunteers try to give too much time and then they are forced to withdraw because the pressure of other responsibilities makes it impossible for them to continue such intensive involvement. When that happens, Friends Outside suffers a tragic failure.

If the teen-ager is attached to the volunteer, it is heartbreaking for him to lose a friend... perhaps his only friend... and with the feeling of rejection, the teen-ager lets the experience reinforce the old philosophy that no one cares.

Try to imagine you are eight years old. You are aware that your family doesn't seem the same as the families you see on the television but television is all make believe so you aren't too unhappy. Life has a routine that you know and understand. Your parents are people with whom you live and their presence is something that you take for granted.

Suddenly your life is turned upside down. Your father doesn't come home anymore. Your home is filled with tension, anger, sorrow, fear, bitterness and a feeling of upheaval. Slowly it begins to penetrate your defense mechanisms,—the police have put your father in jail!

Everyone seems to know your father is the bad man that had to be locked up. You are the kid whose father is in prison. Your father doesn't come home anymore because the police caught him and put him in jail.

How on earth does a child cope with such a tragedy? Many can not and they are scared for life in such a manner that they too, one day, find themselves at odds with society.

According to the material provided by Friends Outside, the children of such families are the ones in the greatest peril of becoming delinquents. Many of the families facing such difficulties are second generation welfare recipients. With the exception of a few Catholic families, most of them have no religious affiliation.

How can concerned people attempt to breach the barricades that the families of prisoners erect about themselves? The directors of Friends Outside think they have a viable answer for the dilemma in which society finds itself. They hope they can provide hope for these "Children Without a Future."

Certain patterns exist which tend to make it difficult for these children to survive. They are mostly undernourished, badly clad and live in substandard housing. Their medical and dental needs go unmet. Their homes lack books and pictures, they hear no stimulating conversation, they seldom journey out of their own neighborhood and, when school work becomes difficult, their mother is unable to help them. It takes incentive to make learning a challenge and they lack the incentive so they soon drop out of classes.

In its approach to the problems of children, Friends Outside vigorously advocates that volunteers care about the children and let them feel secure in that affection. The program calls for little or no effort to be made to cure the actual poverty of the families. Volunteers are urged never to give the children money or presents.

If there is a glaring need Friends Outside wants to be informed so that the organization can take remedial steps and thus the relationship between the youngster and the volunteer remains one of friends and the child is not lured into the role of a "con artist" working a "do gooder."

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Do you find yourself preparing and serving the same vegetables in the same way over and over? It's easy to get into a pattern, we find the vegetables our family like (or in the case of our children, will eat without whining) and serve just those.

Today let's think of some different vegetables and of some different ways to serve our old favorites.

MINT GLAZED CARROTS

- 2 cups cooked carrots, cut in strips
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 Tablespoon mint jelly

Combine the cooked carrots with the fourth cup each sugar and butter and one tablespoon mint jelly in saucepan. Simmer, stirring occasionally until carrots are glazed.

I don't know whether broccoli comes under the heading of an "old favorite" or a "different" vegetable in your family, either way it comes to the table with a fancy cheese topping.

GOLDEN BROCCOLI

- 1 bunch (about 2 pounds) broccoli or 10-oz. frozen packages
- 1 can Cheddar Cheese Soup
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 Dash nutmeg
- 2 Tablespoons buttered bread crumbs
- 4 slices cooked bacon

Cook and drain the broccoli. Place in 1 1/2 quart shallow baking dish. Stir the one can cheese soup; blend in the fourth cup milk, nutmeg; pour over broccoli. Top with the two tablespoons crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Add crumbled bacon. Serves 4 to 6.

How about serving stewed tomatoes? They add color and flavor to a meal, especially with a touch of extra seasonings.

SPANISH STEWED TOMATOES

- 1 slice stale, firm bread cut in 1/4-inch cubes
- 3 Tablespoons olive oil
- 1 can tomatoes, No. 2 1/2 can size
- 1 teaspoon instant minced onion
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano
- three-fourths teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 Tablespoons chopped parsley

Brown the bread cubes in the three tablespoons olive oil. Add the canned tomatoes, one teaspoon instant onion, fourth teaspoon oregano, three-fourths teaspoon seasoned salt, fourth teaspoon pepper and one teaspoon sugar. Simmer uncovered 15 to 20 minutes or until most liquid is evaporated. Add parsley. Serves 4 to 6.

BAKED EGGPLANT

- 1 large eggplant
  - 1 teaspoon minced onion
  - 1 teaspoon diced celery
  - 1 teaspoon diced green pepper
  - 1 cup tomatoes, without juice
  - 1 egg, slightly beaten
  - 1/2 stick margarine, 2 ounces
  - 4 ounces mild cheddar cheese, broken in small pieces
  - Salt and pepper to taste
  - 1 cup bread crumbs
- Pare eggplant, cut in 1-inch cubes. Boil in salted water until tender. Drain well and mash. Combine with the one teaspoon each onion, celery and green pepper; one cup tomatoes, 1 egg, one tablespoon of the butter and the four ounces cheese. Pour into baking dish and top with one cup bread crumbs, dot with remaining butter and bake in 350-degree oven for 45 minutes.

Library Friends Plan Book Sale

Sept. 23, has been set by The Friends of the Daly City Library as the date of their mid-year used book fair to be held in the parking lot in front of Alec's Department Store, Colma.

Mrs. Hubert Sandefur reminds members of the community that donations of books may be left in depositories at any of the three Daly City branch libraries. Books of all kinds, including hardbacks and paperbacks and especially children's books, are sought. Used records will also be welcomed. Mrs. Alvin Schwarzbach, book marking chairman, is conducting book pricing sessions during the summer so that the wares for the fair will be in readiness for the fall event.

Proceeds from the fair will be used to further The Friends' multi-faceted program involving the public library.

SUE ROBERTSON, Water Safety Instructor aid, helps Tiny Tots class students search for rings in the bottom of San Bruno's wading pool. Getting the 4, 5 and 6-year-olds to put their faces in the water is one of the chief goals in the Tiny Tots class.

Reception to Honor New Principal

A reception sponsored by the Serramonte High School Association is being held at Serramonte, August 16 at 7:30 p.m. to honor Serramonte's new principal, Anthony J. Trujillo.

Trujillo brings to Serramonte a broad background of educational experience, having been a teacher and administrator in Newhall, Palo Alto and most recently principal of Alvarado Junior High School in Union City.

All parents and members of the community interested in Serramonte are cordially invited to meet the new principal on August 16, 7:30 p.m. in the faculty room.

This Tiny Tot class student is learning to float at City Park's unique wading pool, with the help of a life saver.

"THERE'S NOTHING to be afraid of" Water Safety Instructor aide Debbie Cockrane assures Jimmy DeVoto, as she shows him how to use the kick board, as an aid to learning to swim, in San Bruno's tiny tot beginner's I class.

D.C. Democratic Club Endorses Herb Rhodes

The last meeting of the Daly City-Colma Democratic Club was highlighted by appearance of Herb Rhodes.

Rhodes is a candidate for the Board of Supervisors of San Mateo County. He spoke of his work in the community and the various positions he has held that would enable him to bring a well rounded background into the Board of Supervisors.

Presently employed at Stanford University, Rhodes has held a number of community positions.

At the close of his presentation Rhodes spent considerable time answering specific questions concerning his platform. Before the close of the meeting Rhodes' candidacy was endorsed by the club.

The club also endorsed the candidacy of George McGovern for the presidency and Leo Ryan in his race for congress.

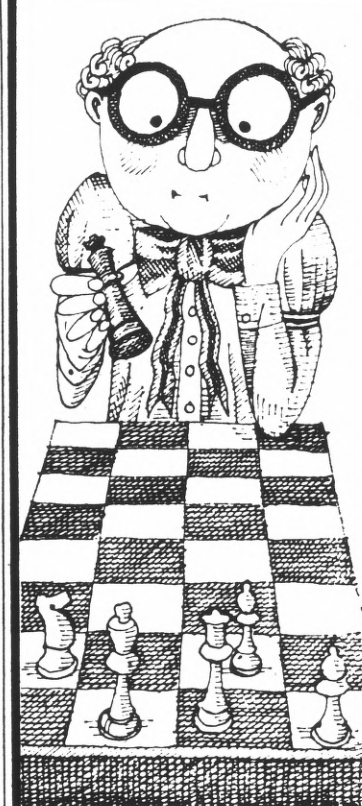

Club Pres. Joe Gruber announced that there is a large drive in Daly City to register voters for the November elections. Anyone wishing to participate should contact him at his South San Francisco number.

In addition he announced that the next meeting of the Daly City-Colma Democratic Club would be on Aug. 23 at 8 p.m. at the M. Pauline Brown School.

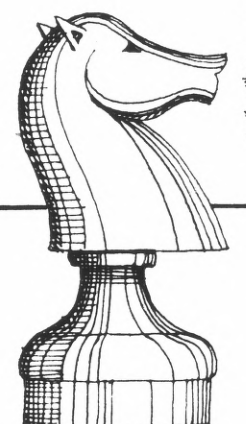

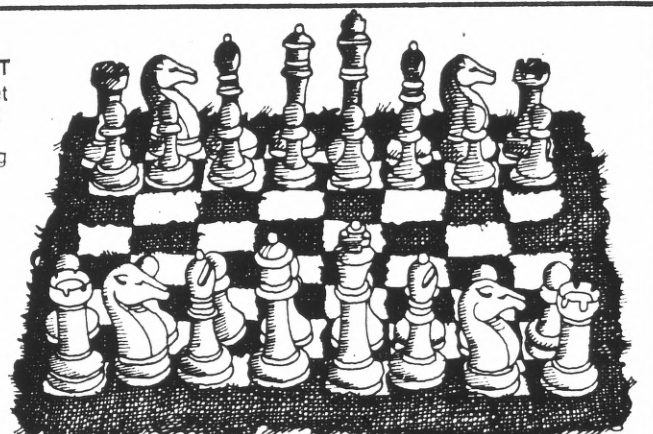

Dorothy Adams and Beverly Forrester, two members of the Jefferson Elementary School Board, will be guest speakers. Their topic will be "The Educational & Financial Shambles of the Jefferson Elementary School Board System - Who Is To Blame?"

Adult Slow Pitch League Is Determined After 4 Tilts

The Adult Slow Pitch Softball League, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division, has been decided in four out of five leagues.

In the B League South, Milio's Misfits claimed the coveted crown but not without a real fight from the Rogues. In the first meeting in the Playoff Round, the Rogues came from a 0-7 deficit to defeat the Misfits in the final stanza 8-7. Pat Manina, Mike Ciardella and Dennis Flannery all hit clutch homers for the Rogues. In the championship game, Milio's Misfits showed their dominance by clubbing the Rogues 10 to 1. Bob Gillette hit a two-run homer and Frank Robles Jr. hit a three-run homer. In other games, Milio's Misfits held the Sluggers to four runs and defeated them 16 to 4.

B League North

The Brewers remained the only undefeated team in the Daly City Recreation Division's Adult Slow Pitch League. Motley's More Ice moved into the playoffs by outslugging the Pomona Casuals 10 to 7. Mike Kossorous went 4 for 5 with 4 doubles. The Brewers held the Broadway Plumbers to a single run and defeated them 7 to 1. Frank Oross, Andy Ynostroza, John Spaich and Jim Moore led the Brewers hitting attack. In the final game, the Brewers edged Motley's More Ice 6 to 4 to claim the big apple.

Airport OKs Settlement

San Francisco International Airport commissioners followed recommendations from the city attorney's office yesterday and unanimously approved a $312,347 out-of-court settlement for a disgruntled airport contractor.

The contractor, Arntz Brothers, Arntz Contracting Co. and Beacon Construction Co., claimed that work on the new rotunda building had been delayed by 427 days — apparently attributable to city mismanagement.

Although the commissioners approved the settlement, they were not happy with it.

"I think it's a pretty smelly deal, but I'm going to vote for it," said Commissioner Wallace R. Lynn, prior to the 3-0 vote.

"I'm definitely opposed to the payment," added Lynn, but he noted that two members of the commission are lawyers and said because they decided to approve the settlement he would do likewise.

Airport General Manager James K. Carr told the commissioners that steps had been taken to avoid a repetition of yesterday's contractor settlement.

Commissioner John A. Sutro said he was glad Carr had taken the steps but warned that it had better not happen again.

Arntz Brothers had filed a claim against the city for $822,839 on grounds that work on the project had been delayed for more than a year because of changes in underground utilities, pilings, structural steel and window walls.

The $312,347 figure was arrived at after city attorneys and the contractors came to an agreement that the constant changes made by airport engineers and architects were responsible for the 427-day delay.

Deputy City Attorney Jerome Cohen told the commissioners that if they should refuse to approve the settlement, the contractors may refuse to continue work on the $3.7 million project.

Cohen said this would result in the city having to receive new bids on the project which would involve additional expense.

Commissioner William K. Coblenz said he and other members of the commission and city attorney's office had worked hard, researching the matter prior to deciding to approve the settlement.

Coblenz said he resented a local San Francisco publication labeling the settlement as a "pay-off."

The settlement must also be approved by the Board of Supervisors before it is made to the contractors.

Reagan Nixes Vacancy Bill

Governor Ronald Reagan has vetoed Senate Bill 162 by Senator Arlen Gregorio of San Mateo which would have changed existing procedures for filling vacancies on city councils and schoolboards.

City councils may now appoint persons to their membership when a vacancy occurs, and they usually do. School boards may not appoint under any circumstances; they must always call special elections. Gregorio's bill would have made the law uniform for both groups, permitting appointments but with provisions to allow any significant segment of the voters to compel a special election.

The vetoed bill also provided that appointees would serve only until the next regular election and could not use the label "incumbent" on the ballot if they then ran for the same office.

Police Nab 2 Pacificans

Two Pacificans were booked on charges of burglary last Thursday after a passerby became suspicious of their actions and reported to police. Booked were George V. Martinez, 22, of 1278 Aspen Drive, and Thomas A. Gettle, 22, of 635 Talbot Avenue. Martinez listed himself as a basketball instructor and Gettle said he builds motorcycles.

The arrest was made at about 11:35 a.m. at an apartment at 2580 Francisco Boulevard.

According to police a passerby saw two men climbing a fence and told a police unit nearby. Police said they arrived at the address as the two men were walking out of the apartment.

Brisbane, D.C. Street Projects Set

Two proposed street projects in Brisbane and Daly City are recommended for priority in allocation of Federal Aid Urban System Program funding in San Mateo County.

County Engineer S. H. Cantwell Jr., in a message to the Board of Supervisors, reports that the City-County Engineers Association of San Mateo County is recommending a $280,000 allocation to widen Knowles Avenue to four lanes between Mission Street and DeLong Street in Daly City, plus construction of a frontage road.

Also recommended are allocations totaling $124,500 to 70 percent of the cost of improving the Brisbane traffic signal system at Bayshore Boulevard, and for improvement of the road surface and realignment of traffic lanes at Geneva Avenue.

The recommendation will be before the board for action Tuesday.

Guard Saves S.S.F. Youth

A South San Francisco youth was reported in satisfactory condition today in Peninsula Hospital after he was pulled unconscious from a swimming pool in that city yesterday.

Ray Wells, 14, of Tipperary Street, South San Francisco, was rescued by an unidentified lifeguard at the Orange Memorial Park pool after he dived into the water and failed to surface.

Westlake, St. Gabriel

Soccer Knot It at 1-All

In an exciting return soccer match, the Westlakers went on the attack immediately. St. Gabriels, ending in a tie 1-1 game.

Forwards Sergio and Orlando Romero, Teresa Abrahamsohn and Paul Abrahamsohn with Mark Buccialeri ran, dribbled and passed to harass the St. Gabriel defense. However, keeping the ball seconds too long, they could not get off a decisive shot at goal. Entering the second half of the game with a scoreless tie, the Westlakers renewed their pressure, but again took too much time to get set for a good shot within goal range.

Then, Theresa Abrahamsohn, who had been the sparkplug of the Westlakers attack throughout, received the ball in the St. Gabriel's goal area. She neatly took it past two defenders, then coolly pushed it in the very corner of the goal — showing finesse worthy of a pro.

Later, the Westlaker defense, rendered a little careless by their first lead, allowed a St. Gabriel's forward to pick up a loose ball and shoot it past the Westlaker goalie who had missed the opportunity to come out and narrow the attackers field or block his drive.

The Westlakers surprised with a team which took to the attack from being on the defense in all past league games, were stunned. This meant that the play of Jason Bruni, goalie; Nick Macchi and Steve Suvaco, fullbacks; Dave Inocencio, center fullback; Greg Anawalt and John Clarke, halfbacks, was powerful enough to support the forwards, who in the past had just roamed the field, picking up loose balls, rather than purposeful, well placed passes.

Training in the Daly City soccer program and continuous league competition is showing results.

Squaws Lose To Slo-Pitch Gals of D.C.

The Women's Slo-Pitch Softball All Star Team, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, downed the San Francisco Squaws, 4-0. The two teams squared off at Westlake Park South Diamond as a climax to the 1972 Summer League.

Nasha Dominguez pitched an excellent game not allowing a runner past second base. A double play and excellent fielding provided a good back up for Nasha's efforts.

Kathy Blessun tripled in one run, but Sharon Cassidy provided the back-breaking blow in the first inning with a triple down the third base line with two runners on base. Sharon later managed to score the third run.

The San Francisco Squaws displayed an excellent effort in holding the All Stars to only four runs. Shelia Colombana led the hitting line up, but could not score.

The All Star Team was made up of Sherry Garner, Claire Anderson, Sharon Cassidy, Candy Pastori, Joanne Stamp, Nasha Dominguez, Loretta Anderson, Linda Perez, Pat Scott, Cathy Blessum, Barbara Galwitz, and Eva Grimon. Linda Torres and Rose Oakes were alternates. The All Star Team was coached by Bob Hollandsworth and Manuel Hermosillo.

A late summer league is forming for women 18 years of age and older. Interested teams or players should contact Katherine Bradshaw, recreation supervisor (982-5356).

Millbrae Golfer Scores an Ace

Thomas Zlatunich of Millbrae scored a hole in one at San Mateo Muni links Sunday, and you might say it's a family secret.

Because Zlatunich's witnesses were his three sons — Tom, George and Mike.

The ace, Zlatunich's first, came on the 168-yard second hole. He accomplished the feat with a number six iron.

Warriors to Hold B'ball Clinic in SSF

The Golden State Warriors Basketball Team will visit South San Francisco on Wednesday, August 16, at South San Francisco High School Gym, 400 B Street, to present a free basketball clinic.

This summer the clinic, sponsored by the South San Francisco Recreation Division, will again be held at 7:30 p.m. in the evening so that fathers and mothers may also see the pros with their youngsters.

Coach Al Attles, plus many members of last year's Golden State Warriors team, will be on hand to give instructions to the boys and girls attending.

Free tickets will be awarded and basketball and Warriors T-shirts will also be given as prizes.

Families, boys and girls, teenagers are all invited to attend, watch and talk with the professional basketball players.

Pfc. Jerome Pittman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Pittman of 178 Santa Cruz Avenue, Daly City, was meritoriously promoted to his present rank upon graduation from basic training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego. He received the promotion in recognition of his outstanding performance in all phases of recruit training. He is a former student of California State College at Hayward.

Samuel Chandler Education Needs Monetary Equality

The world wide average proportion of eligible children attending school is 68 per cent for the elementary years and 40 per cent for the secondary years. In the United States, however, the averages stand at 98 per cent and 92 per cent, respectively.

Moreover, the United States expends a higher percentage of its gross national product on schools than does any other section of the world. In the United States within the last decade the annual expenditures for public elementary and secondary schools have increased by 153 per cent. In absolute dollars, this was an increase from $15.6 billion in 1959-1960 to $39.5 billion in 1969-1970.

These figures are cited by Prof. James W. Guthrie of the University of California in an article entitled "American School Costs Compared" and it is found in the July issue of Current History. It is an article that should be widely read.

Citing figures, Prof. Guthrie points to two serious problems that plague American Schools. First, the costs of education now threaten to overwhelm the outmoded and inequitable tax bases which support them. Second, there is a tremendous disparity in the distribution of school resources throughout the United States.

To illustrate the disparity, Prof. Guthrie presents several tables. Table V shows that current expenditure per pupil runs from $489 in Alabama to $1,370 in New York and $1,429 in Alaska. The figure for California is $799, which is considerably lower than such neighboring states as Oregon, Washington, and Nevada.

Table VI demonstrates the interstate disparities in per pupil expenditures for the 1969-1970 school year. For California the high was $2,414 while the low was $569. Such figures, writes Prof. Guthrie, show that within the states, "some school districts are funded in an overwhelmingly lavish fashion while others struggle to support a skeletal school program."

No wonder he concludes that "a major effort is needed to eliminate the vast inequities which pervade the nation's school resource distribution system."

Following Prof. Guthrie's article in Current History, there are six other articles that concerned citizens should read. They are: "Toward Better Schools: The Relation of Dollars" by Professor Larry D. Singell of the University of Colorado; "School Professional Salary Costs in Perspective" by Maurice A. Lohman; "Financing School Facilities" by Bruce F. Davie; "The Costs of Educational Innovation" by Mark Shedd and Jacqueline Clement; "Rising Costs of Catholic Schools" by John Deedy; and "The Taxpayers' Revolt Against Rising School Costs" by Robert Boyden Lamb.

Following these articles are book reviews on current books concerning American education.

Surely Current History is well worth the time you will spend reading it.

Times Force Need For Court Security

Ever-increasing violence and lawlessness impinging upon the conduct of public business and public affairs carries with it a bill of high costs to the public. Nothing could be more illustrative of this than the installation of up to $300,000 worth of electronic security equipment at the San Mateo County Hall of Justice in Redwood City which houses 16 courtrooms and the County Jail.

The equipment will consist of closed circuit television in all the courtrooms and the corridors adjacent to them, together with a sophisticated electronic surveillance system surrounding the entire building. All of this will be under monitored surveillance by the Sheriff's office where interlocking security devices can be instantly activated. If its found necessary, similar equipment may be installed in all of the other county government buildings which make up the complex seat of county government — the total estimated cost may run as high as a million dollars.

Is this big security system needed?

REGRETTABLY, YES, IT IS.

It was the lack of this kind of security that allowed the deaths of a judge and three others in the Marin County Courthouse. Such methods were needed recently at a neighboring Santa Clara court during the trial of Angela Davis and in Los Angeles during the Charles Manson killer gang trial. There have been other recent courtroom shootings and attempted escapes in other California courts. Changes of venue are becoming commonplace in major criminal trials and no county knows when such a trial may be assigned to it.

In our own county the multiple escapes from the County Jail places emphasis on the necessity of maximum security.

Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan, referring to the installation of electronic security methods in San Mateo County, summed up the need for it with the wry observation, "It is a sign of the time in which we live, unfortunately."

San Bruno Youth

500 Miles in 26 Days

This is the Sierra Nevada, the snowy and sawtooth range, high on the east, low on the west, born of the convulsions of earth, roughly molded by fire and finely molded by time and wind and the flowing of water . . .

Prologue to THE MIGHTY SIERRA
By Paul Webster

By BOB PETERSON

Endless volumes have been published on the High Sierra's rugged peaks and granite spires. Its mountain meadows, crystal lakes and snow-fed streams have always held a mystical magic.

Through the years most of its big woods, slopes, and still blue waters have been explored by Indians, trappers, emigrants, engineers, sportsmen and tourists.

So what's so great about a 16-year-old San Brunan spending a portion of his summer hiking in all that beauty?

Plenty, when you consider that he covered close to 500 miles along the rim in 26 days — alone.

Brett Berrier sat on the edge of the desk, periodically brushing back long strands of black hair from over his right eye.

"I had great dreams of some sort of psychological change, or maturing," he said in explaining why he decided on the trek. "But I wouldn't say anything like that happened."

Yet, it was obvious as he talked of his experience that he had grown within, even though he dropped 15 pounds in the ordeal.

He traveled an average of 18 miles a day, some days, in flat areas, doing as much as 26.

"I just sort of dreamed of doing the whole Sierra trip," said Brett, his 130-pound starting weight now beginning to fill in the young sinewy frame.

"Nobody wanted to go with me. No one wanted to knock himself out like that."

Brett said that everyone he spoke to advised him against taking the trip alone.

"My parents were quite worried. They neither consented nor disapproved. They just sort of understood," said Brett.

Mr. and Mrs. Arel W. Berrier, of 2161 Rosewood Drive, ended up taking their son to his starting point at Meeks Bay in Lake Tahoe. They also made a food drop along the line, and were waiting when the journey ended at the Giant Forest in Sequoia National Park.

Brett is no novice at camping or hiking. He's a third-year member of the Sierra Club and claims five years' hiking experience.

And he had a special wedge to push his father over to a neutral corner.

"He did a 250-miler in the Rockies by himself when he was a teen-ager," revealed Brett. "And I was three or four when they (parents) started dragging me along by the arm on camping trips. It's inherited."

As a safety measure, Brett had prearranged calling points along the way, and had worked out a reporting schedule with Forest Rangers.

"They have an excellent High Sierra ranger system," complimented Brett. "They can get you out of there in half an hour — if they can find you."

He said the first half of the trip was a physical test.

"The first 10 days, from Meeks Bay to Tuolumne Meadows, I stuffed myself and got sick. I lost 11 pounds to that point."

He said the food — including oatmeal, Tang, dry soup and cheese — "didn't go very far." The 40-pound backpack also contained 22 maps and "a full supply of insect repellent."

During these first 10 days, Brett crossed five highways. The second half of the trip he called the "emotional half — being alone." He said he went "300 miles without touching a slab of concrete" and had no human communication for days.

"I found a little bit about what loneliness is," he said. "It's very hard to describe, though. It's feeling rather empty."

"The worst thing about the trip was lack of food. That became a real concern. On a trip like that you've got to keep yourself occupied. Otherwise you get extremely lonely. I was staring at maps all the time. My thoughts were to keep myself down the trail."

Brett said that when he first started on the trip he presumed solitude to be of great importance.

"I thought of myself as starting out on a great conquest. I had no ambition of talking to people. That soon went by the wayside."

The first couple of days he spent walking across snow.

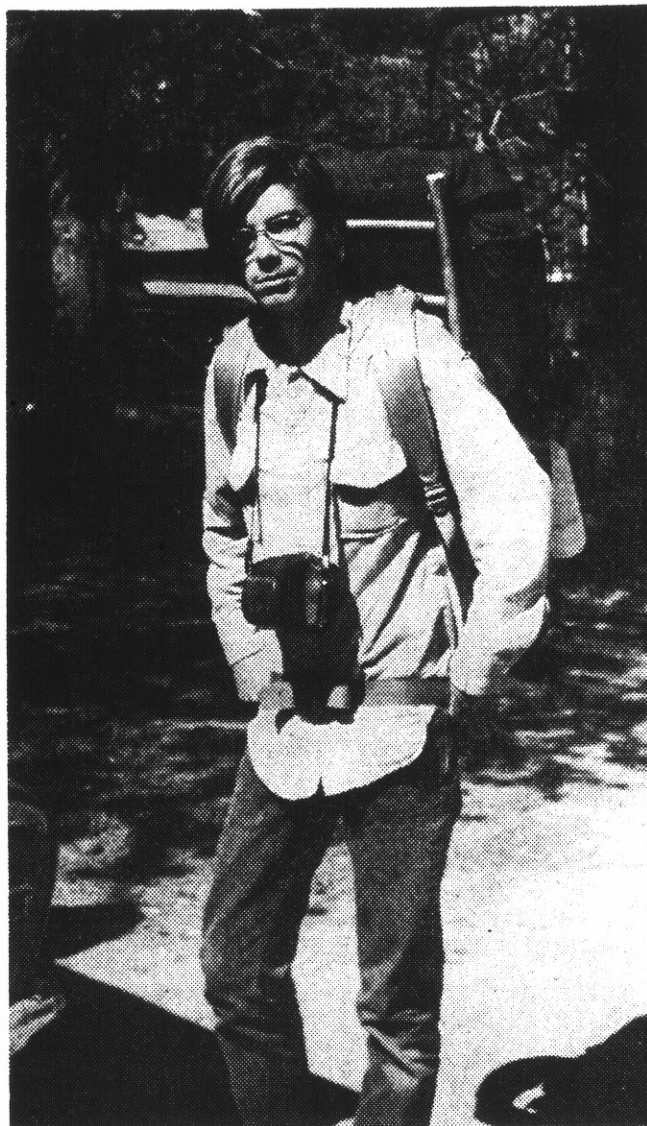

"Being alone, that was very discouraging," he said. "I was lost eight times in the first four days, for hours at a time."

Eventually along the way he would periodically meet up with other hikers and campers.

"That's when I learned a little more respect for mankind," he admitted. "At the end I was happy to talk to people."

He said that during his excursion he met one group walking from Mexico to the Oregon border.

In another instance he spent a night camped with five other individuals — each of whom had been on their own the night before and went their own way the next day.

BRETT BERRIER

"Loaners take care of each other," concluded Brett.

The adventurer also was supplied once with food from other hikers, "which was nice."

"My food was planned out, but it didn't fulfill me, and I got very hungry at some points."

As melodramatic as it may sound, there were times Brett considered himself to be in life-or-death situations, the very reason he was admonished not to travel alone.

He recalls one instance where he had to swim a river, and "could easily have been carried down stream and over a rapids." Most of the streams he could wade, although some meant chest-deep wading, he said.

"One confrontation with a bear sent quite a shock of adrenalin through me," mused Brett, now back safe from the wilds.

Brett said he had strung his backpack high on a tree limb and was sleeping about 15 feet from it when he was awakened by the sound of breaking branches. He peered up to see a bear climbing for the food in the pack.

"I think I've never been so scared in my life," said Brett. "I screamed. The bear stood there. I screamed again, and he finally lumbered on his way."

Brett said the animal happened to be what is commonly referred to as a "camp bear," one that has lost his fear of man, but loves man's food.

"It's only when I got close to civilization that I had this problem," said Brett, claiming he could sleep with his foot by his side in the more remote country.

"All I had was a fingernail file, for cutting cheese, nothing for self-defense," he responded quickly when asked what he had for self-protection in such an emergency.

His advice to prospective hikers is to learn to relax, and to be patient.

"If I got tired of sitting in one place, I'd glance at my watch and say to myself, 'maybe I can get up that hill by 3:30.' I was interested in doing miles," said the Crestmoor High School Junior.

Is he ready to do it again? Most certainly. But maybe not immediately.

"My father and I have an agreement on that," he said coyly.

He hinted at a trip from the Mexican to the Canadian border when he turns 18, and also said he is "thinking about walking across the desert."

The rest of his summer is going to be spent "relaxing and reading." He says he's got "a whole lot of books on the desert."

Story Time Next Week

JUST THE OTHER DAY a reader asked how we could come up with a column that holds a person's interest, as opposed to "puff articles" some columnists are fond of dribbling out. Today we asked ourself the same question. After a two-minute survey of material piled up on the old desk it was evident time, material and energy just weren't up to it. Sooo, no column.

BUT DON'T GO AWAY permanently. You do want to follow the continuing saga of such soap-opera-series as "Mr. District Attorney," the story that asks why can't legal action be instituted against offenders who break the law to suit their own fancy, don't you?

Or "Tombstone Travels," the chilling drama of how three ranchers filled a little cemetery city with so much fear they ruled without contradiction (but plenty of moola). Then there is, of course, "Life can be beautiful," a tearful episode of old folks getting the shaft from tax happy officials in all echelons of our government. See ya.

The Public Voice

Editor, The Post:

This year's San Mateo County Fair is nothing short of a disaster; unless, of course, the fun-seeker is a millionaire; and even then, it is a burn. It seems to me that the only people who are really getting a kick out of the affair are those who are at the receiving end.

The fair officials must really think they have created a Northern California Disneyland.

To start out, parking outside the fair will cost one dollar. (Point of interest: It costs only fifty-cents to park in Disneyland's lot.) As one progresses to the gates of San Mateo's "Magic Kingdom," he is grabbed by the feet and his pockets release another dollar-fifty. (Three dollars if the person is foolish enough to bring a date.)

But once he is inside, he is confronted by a world of fun. This year's festival has more stomach-upsetting rides than ever before.

Each ride challenges man's vanity, as well as his pocketbook. The he-man is really asking for trouble if he commences to eat any of the Fair's health foods before blast-off. Remnants of cotton candy, polish sausages and tacos spangle the fairgrounds and take on a panoramic of psychedelia when seen from one-hundred feet up while blood is rushing to the brain. The hope that the coins which had fallen out of this poor guy's pockets may be retrieved will only be met with dismay, as fair officials cleverly stationed "Not Responsible for Lost Articles" signs beneath each stomach-twisting, head-swirling ride.

Prices for rides start at forty cents, but as the effect on the stomach increases, so do the prices, with seventy-five cents the halting mark.

The free exhibits are adequate; that is if one's idea of free fun is getting examined by a chiropractor.

Sadly departing from the Fair, one's eyes are beckoned to the greedy smile of the helium balloon man. Expecting this to be the best buy of the evening, the big spender hastily goes for his wallet, asking "How much?" at the same time.

"Sixty-five cents," says the man to the already embarrassed date-taker. The girl shyly stares at the ground while the boy reluctantly is taken once again by the slings and arrows of outrageous overprice.

It is my opinion that the nonsensical overpricing of this year's Fair is a motivating factor which contributes to the want of the individual to save a few dollars.

Millbrae Program

Helpful Harry Is on the Way

Helpful Harry is coming to Millbrae in the fall.

Helpful Harry is a Safety Bird, a new species created by a Fresno firm to aid elementary school children in acquiring good health and safety habits.

The National Drug and Safety League, a non-profit organization based in Fresno, has instituted a pamphlet program involving small coloring books which are devoted to spelling out health and safety basics.

Each of the 3,200 grammar school children in Millbrae will receive a copy of one of the little manuals this coming semester.

Students at both Mills and Capuchino high schools will also get copies of two other books (not coloring books) which detail some of the facts about drug abuse and venereal disease.

Millbrae Police Chief Lawrence Pickett, through whose office the program is being directed, says the League's work is one of the better educational efforts of its kind. He explains that it is an outgrowth of the successful "Officer Bill" bicycle safety program of past years.

Central District Municipal Court Judge Marcel Biscay notes that, as one of those officially endorsing the program, he has found it to be a sound step in a positive direction.

"You have to begin somewhere," he says. "I've looked into the firm, read all the materials and I'm confident that respect for law enforcement and public safety agencies will be instilled."

Judge Biscay, who has been an outspoken advocate of reforms in the handling of drug offenders, adds that booklets such as the ones prepared by the League can only help but give young people confidence in law enforcement officials and remove some of the fear which some children may now have.

The pamphlets have been used in a number of San Joaquin Valley cities in the past year with some success, according to Judge Biscay.

The Fresno company supplies the books to cities who want them and the bill is footed by local merchants whose names are listed in the front of each manual.

The program is incorporated into the local police education effort in conjunction with the city's department.

All told, about 7,500 Millbrae young people will be exposed to at least one of the pamphlets in the fall.

Schmitz Vote, McGovern Vote

George Wallace is not running for President of the United States, but John Schmitz is. What this means in practical politics could have a good deal to do with the coming election.

Wallace and Schmitz are two very different people. George Wallace could pick his teeth with the best of them. John Schmitz is an educator by profession, urbane and has a personality that could be confused with that of a "pointy-headed liberal."

Wallace is a "populist," much like William Jennings Bryan. He is against the establishment and talks down everybody who is somebody. In this, he has some similarities to George McGovern.

Congressman Schmitz is an intellectual conservative. For some of us, it is hard to believe that cerebration could lead to the Schmitz positions on various issues. He often appears to arrive at a highly illogical conclusion in a very highfalutin and professional way.

Congressman Schmitz is a Republican. George Wallace is a Democrat.

The impact of these differences on the coming campaign may be predictable. Even with a Southern running mate,

Schmitz just won't own the South the way Wallace does. He will get some votes there, but will be working against a predominantly Democratic registration and will be viewed as a very sophisticated outsider rather than as "one of the folks."

In 1968, George Wallace won the electoral votes of Alabama (10), Georgia (12), Louisiana (10), Mississippi (7), and Arkansas (6), for a total of 45.

His 46th and final electoral vote came from a North Carolina elector who ignored his obligation to President Nixon.

The likelihood is that Schmitz won't come close to getting any of these.

Even before the assassination attempt, Wallace was a national political figure. He had vote power in all of the states, and even though he might have been limited to electoral votes in the deep South, would have been a force to deal with everywhere.

Schmitz is an unknown who will have to rely upon the AIP, the John Birch web, and a scattering of other support.

Schmitz, however, has one important strength. He comes from California. Furthermore, he comes from the heartland of California Republican majorities, Orange County, where he has high visibility.

In 1969, Wallace secured almost 500,000 California votes. Nixon beat Hubert Humphrey in the State by 223,346. His majority could be fully attributed to Orange and San Diego Counties, with a 166,036 lead in Orange and a 93,871 lead in San Diego.

Schmitz is going to attract different people than Wallace did. He will probably fail to gather the strength of Wallace in Archie Bunker land, but will be strong among doctrinaire conservatives. These devotees of the past are presently registered either in the AIP or the Republican Party. None, or almost none of these, are Democrats. So whatever support Schmitz gets in California will come almost entirely out of the potential Nixon vote.

Wallace, managed to get 268,551 Democratic write-in votes in this year's California primary. Republican write-in have never counted, but there have been indications that there were a reasonably large number of such votes.

In addition, Schmitz is going to go searching for the Ash-brook vote, which amounted to approximately 9 percent of Republicans.

Wallace, in 1968, took California votes from both Humphrey and Nixon in percentages that will never be accurately ascertained. Schmitz, in 1972, if he takes anything at all, will take almost entirely from Republicans and from President Nixon.

Those who follow this column know that up to the assassination attempt, I always anticipated George Wallace would run, and try to throw the election into congress by securing sufficient Electoral College votes to deprive both major candidates of a majority. This can hardly be Schmitz's objective. As an intelligent man, he knows he is probably not going to win any electoral votes. His spoiler campaign may be entirely directed to California in an effort to deprive President Nixon of getting this state's 45 electoral votes.

In other words, a Schmitz vote is a McGovern vote. Where Wallace might have hoped to get leverage in the House of Representatives, Schmitz's only objective, in terms of this election, seems punitive.

8-Cent School Tax Boost in Pacifica

Pacifica Laguna Salada Union School District trustees have granted an across-the-board 5 per cent pay increase while adopting a $6.9 million budget. It will mean an increase of 8 cents on the tax rate, up to $4 per $100 assessed valuation from the 1971-72 rate of $3.92. In addition to pay increases which will amount to about $250,000, both certificated and classified employee groups were granted 100 per cent employee and family coverage on medical and dental health plans. Trustees agreed that "in the event of further action by the State Legislature to increase the income of the district" the board would re-open discussions for considering further improvements on the areas of employee compensation. The budget was adopted with a $2,652 undistributed reserve. The general reserve is $10,000.

SSF Woman Injured in 4-Car Crash

A 74-year-old South San Francisco woman was reported in "fairly good" condition at Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame after sustaining "multiple rib fractures" in a four-car collision last week. Margarita Telfini of 548 Serra Drive was injured when the car she was driving struck the rear of another vehicle, sending it into another, and the third into a fourth in the left turn lane at a stop signal at El Camino Real and Chestnut Avenue in South San Francisco, according to police. Also taken to the hospital, but not admitted, were a passenger in her car, Brizio Telfini, 75, treated for cuts on his forehead, and Alta Taylor, 70, of 236 Seaside Drive, Pacifica, driver of another car, who complained of back pain. Police said the Telfini vehicle struck one driven by George Diktakis, 26, of 358 Alida Way, South San Francisco.

Ensign Victor L. Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace A. Scott of 2841 Ridgeway Avenue, San Bruno, was commissioned upon graduation from Naval Officer Candidate School at Newport, R.I. He is a former student of the University of Santa Clara.

Pacifica Expects Increased Revenue

The city of Pacifica anticipates $40,000 in increased revenue in the 1972-73 budget as a result of property reassessments by the county. This was but one of several items explained to the council by staff members in a Wednesday night budget session. The council seemed to concur on the need to increase non-resident recreational fees, eventually establish a "trip-ticket" system for the city motor pool to keep track of vehicles, contract out plan checking for building construction and review, as time permits, all the city's fees and charges. The council also tentatively approved allocation of $1,300 for improvements of a Pomo Park playground project. It was agreed $900 of that amount would come from available park dedication fees. The possibility of publishing an "annual report to the people" was discussed. The council decided to seek bids on the proposal. The figure of $1,500 was mentioned as a desired cost.

Councilman Nick Gust said, "There are more important things to spend money on." But Mayor Grace McCarthy expressed concern "with getting our message across to the people." Director of Parks, Beaches and Recreation Richard Burton has recommended that all non-resident recreation fees for classes be automatically increased by 50 per cent with a $10 maximum fee. It received a favorable response from the council. Councilman Gust and Harlan Minshew expressed concern that city vehicles were being driven home by employees with no apparent check on whether they were used for unofficial business. Minshew said he wanted a "military trip-ticket system" established so that mileage and destination are continually recorded and a spot record check can be made on where the vehicle has been and for what it has been used. Summer midweek services continue to be held in the Daly City area on Wednesdays, 7:30 to 8:15 p.m. During this month of August, the services are held at the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377-87th St., Daly City. These worship services with music, scripture and preaching are led by the four pastors. Pictured (l-r), Al Muro of the Westlake Community Baptist Church, Jim Current of the United Methodist Church, Tom Unmacht of the Westlake Lutheran Church and Herb Tweedie of the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church represented here by Steve Golden of the Church. Purpose of these midweek services is to provide an opportunity for church people as well as the public to have a time and place for worship for those who are away from the community on outings or vacations during the worship services on Sundays.

Democrats Plan Drive For Voter Registration

A massive Democratic Party drive will begin at the end of this month when local schools and colleges open for the fall term.

The drive will bring together the county campaign organizations of Sen. George McGovern for president, Leo Ryan and James Stewart for Congress and Lou Papan and Beth Labson for state Assembly.

All 700 precincts in this county will be canvassed and registration tables set up at shopping centers, unemployment offices and other public places.

Another major phase of the drive will be directed in each city by a city chairman ("chairperson" in the announcement) who will be responsible for precinct canvassing and registration tables in their respective areas.

County co-chairmen are Cliff Higgerson and Diarmuid McGuire. Area coordinators are Garry Bieringer in the North County, Carol Burke in the Mid-county and Sandra Cooperman in the South county.

City chairmen:

Bette Higgins and Pat Wally, South San Francisco; Molly Weintraub, Judy Green, Joe Gruber and Tom Finn, Daly City; Janice Fulford, Jim Lipman and Sid Loran, Pacifica; Carol Carter, Barbara Simon, San Bruno; Kay Nelson, Beth Tegnell, Len Wargo and Will Slocum, Millbrae; John and Carla Roemer and Dave Larson, Burlingame; Rita Sturmer, east of Bayshore Freeway, Leah Cotton, north central section and Jackie and Andy Merovich and Marya Lichvert, the remainder, all city of San Mateo; Monroe Sweetland and Jean Van Houten, San Mateo Highlands; Rita Neimeier, Foster City; Ann Benner, Hillsborough; Edith Fountain, Half Moon Bay; Al Hogerson, El Granada; Ann Dempsey, Miramar; George Cockshott and Jim Drotleff, Belmont; Kathy Brown and Marilyn Radisch, San Carlos; Bob Parvin, Redwood City; U.S.

Strike Spreads To San Bruno

Pickets from the striking Retail Clerks Union in San Francisco added the San Bruno Emporium — not yet completed — to its list of targets today.

The store, located in the Tanforan Shopping Center, is presently under construction. It is expected that union workers on the site will honor the clerks' picket line.

Informational pickets from the union have been marching in front of the Hillsdale Emporium for several days.

Pickets have also been marching in front of an Emporium warehouse in South San Francisco.

The union had aimed its attention primarily at the store's two San Francisco locations but, this week, it has included Peninsula locations as well.

Historian Tells

Story of the Singing People

Audrey E. Harris, Millbrae city historian spoke Monday at the San Mateo County Fair in the Garden Center Theatre at 7:30 p.m.

In her talk, "The Singing People: Millbrae's Spanish Heritage," she will tell the story of the Jose Antonio Sanchez family, Rancho Buri Buri land grant owners.

The romantic story of Millbrae's first residents, whose adobe stood on the El Camino Real near the present Millbrae Avenue for many years, is based on research and 62 hand-written Spanish documents rediscovered by Mrs. Harris at the time she and other historically-minded and concerned citizens sought to save Millbrae's 16 Mile House. Hours of research at the Bancroft Library, California Historical Society and the San Mateo County Museum revealed a story of vaqueros and grazing cattle, Spanish soldiers in gay trappings, beautiful Spanish ladies and white-walled adobes, and 14,000 acres that quickly passed through the heirs' lands when California became a part of the U.S.

Nab Waitress In San Bruno

An unemployed San Francisco waitress was arrested at Tanforan Park Wednesday on a series of charges involving an alleged attempt to cash a $100 check using a false Bank of America check cashing card.

A Bank of America security officer told San Bruno police that thousands of dollars in false checks had been cashed using that card.

Vennie Mae Southall, 46, was charged with possession of stolen property, possession of a possibly dangerous drug and forgery.

Police report that the teller at the Tanforan office of Bank of America had been warned that the particular card was a false one. When Miss Southall came to her station, the teller recognized the card and tried to detain her. Miss Southall fled, however, and the teller called police.

Officers chased her in the parking lot and, they claim, Miss Southall struggled and bit one officer when he grabbed her.

Millbrae Student Blazes New Trail

Blazing a new educational trail, a 22-year-old Millbrae student will attend College of San Mateo this fall in Washington, D.C.

The young woman, Clarice Howling Wolf, is the first Western community college student ever to be accepted at the nation's capital for a federal government job which will earn her both a salary and college credit.

Miss Howling Wolf, a member of the Arikara Indian tribe whose family resides on a North Dakota reservation, already has headed for Washington for orientation into work she will be doing in the personnel department of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

A business major at CSM, she is one of more than 700 students enrolled in the college's fast-growing "cooperative education" program, which couples campus classroom instruction with off-campus work experience.

Her Washington opportunity was developed by Dr. Vern Gillmore, associate dean of instruction at CSM for career education.

"The philosophy of cooperative education at College of San Mateo," said Dr. Gillmore, "embraces the concept that considerable education takes place through planned experiences outside of the classroom. In the past, cooperative education training stations have been developed in San Mateo County and adjoining counties. However, we have been well aware of the fact that many valuable experiences take place at great distances from the college, particularly in such places as the nation's capital."

Recently, therefore, Dr. Gillmore said, CSM launched an effort to place students in federal offices in Washington for educational purposes. The first such training station to be secured was that for Miss Howling Wolf in OEO.

"It is planned to continue efforts in the development of educational training stations for CSM cooperative education students in strategic locations throughout the United States," said Dr. Gillmore. "Miss Howling Wolf is the first of what we hope will be many students receiving valuable educational experiences in exciting locations across the nation while enrolled as students at College of San Mateo."

Miss Howling Wolf will be with OEO through December. In addition to her work in the Washington office, she will be traveling to many college campuses throughout the U.S. to explain the cooperative education concept to minority students.

Becker Named Allstate District Sales Manager

Ron Becker has been named to district sales manager of the Allstate Insurance Company for northern San Mateo County. Becker, who will supervise three sales locations, will work out of the insurance firm's district service office at 375 Serramonte Plaza in Daly City.

Previously, Becker was assistant district sales manager in the Pasadena office of Allstate. He joined the Sears owned firm as an agent in 1968.

The new district sales manager attended University of Arizona and served in the Marine Corps.

He and his wife, Allyn, have three children and will be taking up residence in the Bay Area.

Allstate is a multiple line insurance company, handling life, health, automobile, homeowners and commercial insurance as well as mutual funds.

Agents Burn $500,000 in Dope

On a dirt road in South San Francisco last week there was a sweet smell in the air.

U.S. Customs agents were burning $500,000 worth of dope seized while being smuggled into the United States. The cases against the various smugglers have been closed, according to U.S. Customs agents, allowing the burning ceremony.

Making its way into the brick incinerator normally used to burn city trash was a huge, hollowed out hashish-filled Limburger cheese.

Customs Agent William B. Lim said an agent discovered the hiding place, but even if he hadn't a hashish-sniffing dog they would have found it.

Also going into the ten-foot-high furnace were hashish-filled chocolate boxes, bars of soap, and a chess set built with a false bottom containing thin cakes of hash in waterproof wrappings.

In total 35 pounds of marijuana, 55 pounds of hashish, 14 pounds of heroin and 15 pounds of opium (that looked like a ball of tar) were put to the sludge gas flame. The hash itself had a street value of $200,000, according to one customs official.

U.S. CONSTITUTION — Navy Petty Officer Third Class Robert S. Leindecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Leindecker of 7166 Crestmoor Drive, San Bruno, has returned to San Diego aboard the aircraft carrier USS Constellation after a nine-month deployment to the Western Pacific.

about ground beef labeling...

When you buy ground beef at Lucky, you also know exactly what you are buying. Lucky sells its ground beef by three classifications:

GROUND BEEF — approximate fat content 25%
LEAN GROUND BEEF — approximate fat content 20%
EXTRA LEAN GROUND BEEF — approx. fat content 15%

Federal and state regulations stipulate that ground beef cannot have more than 30% fat content. At Lucky, our least expensive ground beef has only approximately 25% fat, substantially less fat per pound than legally permitted.

So remember — it pays to shop at Lucky, where all our meat is... Truthfully Labeled — Quality Bonded and Discount Priced at all times.

No Increase In San Bruno School Taxes

San Bruno school trustees have adopted a $6,435,000 budget, continuing the $3,0398 tax rate, gave all employees a 3.9 per cent pay boost and increased the price of cafeteria meals by a nickel, to 50 cents.

Trustees appointed a new coordinator of special services, Walter J. Miller, at an annual salary of $16,632 and Mrs. Doris L. Dull as his secretary at $579 a month, to start.

The position was formerly held by Dr. Robert Rottman, who was subsequently promoted to the position of associate superintendent-instruction. The post had been vacant for the past two years.

Miller had been coordinator of programs for educationally handicapped in Santa Rosa for the past three years, having come to California from Massachusetts where he was state supervisor of guidance services.

Trustees voted to raise the school lunch price when Business Manager Sherrill F. Houghton presented a report that the school cafeterias lost $23,252 last year. Although this was better than the $27,890 loss the previous year, it was far from the break-even point. Even the price increase is not expected to stop the flow of red ink, but Houghton said that he dared not ask for a higher price raise for fear that the cafeterias would lose too many customers.

He noted that neighboring school districts charged 50 cents a meal. In urging a vote for higher cafeteria price, Trustee Harry Redlick noted that otherwise, two cents must be added to the tax rate.

Associate Supt. Ted Jackson reported that the teachers had first asked for a 5.5 per cent pay increase, and after months of negotiations, had finally settled for 3.9. The new salary range is now $7,800 to $16,030, plus a bonus for a master's degree.

Other employees also agreed to the same pay increase. The new tax rate—which last year was the second highest in San Mateo County—is based upon secured assessed valuation of $82,587,835—about 13 1/2 per cent higher than last year. Still not yet received from the state is the new value of the public utility properties, which Administrative assistant Bob Barron is estimating will also have gone up 13 1/2 per cent from last year's $7,779,120.

S.F. Supervisor Fights Airport Settlement

San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein told The Post Tuesday she is opposed to a $312,347 out-of-court settlement for a disgruntled airport contractor.

The contractor claimed that work on San Francisco International Airport's new rotunda building had been delayed by 427 days — apparently attributable to city mismanagement.

San Francisco Airport Commissioners approved the settlement Tuesday — but the appropriation must also be approved by the Board of Supervisors before it is given to Arnitz Brothers, Arnitz Contracting Co., and Beacon Construction.

"On the basis of what I know so far, I don't intend to vote for that appropriation," Supervisor Feinstein said.

She added that she will ask for a full scale public hearing on the matter when the supervisors meet on Monday.

Citing what she termed an

Two Injured In Bruno Cycle Crash

Two persons were injured — one critically — in San Bruno Sunday when a motorcycle reportedly roared at 70 miles per hour down a residential street, through a stop sign, and into the rear of a sports car.

Police report that motorcycle driver Anthony J. Valencia Jr., 20, Atlantic Avenue, San Bruno, flew 135 feet through the air, some 10 to 12 feet high, before hitting the ground. Rushed to Peninsula Hospital, he was treated for head injuries, facial fracture, and neck injuries before being placed in the intensive care ward.

Also hurt was Bradley Scott Sturz, 44, Atherton, a passenger in the sports car that was hit. He was treated for a head laceration.

According to police, Charles M. Pruett, Tiburon, was driving along Herman Street and slowed down for the stop sign on Scott Street when struck by the motorcycle — which hurtled on after throwing its rider, and rammed a second car which was parked.

Book Man 3 Times for Drunkenness

Transient Jesse Cobb, 43, had one of those lost weekends.

Thursday night he was released from South San Francisco's jail where police said he had been booked for inebriation.

Friday afternoon he was a passenger in a car with Bramley Barnes, 59, of 220 Linden Avenue, apparently celebrating his release from jail.

Going westbound on Baden Avenue, police said the car veered off the road and hit a fire alarm pole, continued for 200 feet and struck a no parking sign.

Police arrested Barnes for felony drunk driving. Cobb was taken to Kaiser Hospital, South San Francisco, and transferred from there to Chope Community Hospital, San Mateo.

But he apparently was not badly injured.

Saturday night, police said, Cobb was back in jail, once again charged with drunkenness.

Drug Death In Daly City

Ronald V. Schmeidel, 26, was found dead in a Daly City motel Thursday, the apparent victim of an overdose of drugs, the coroner's office reports.

Coroner's Supervisor Robert Cole reported that Schmeidel was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital about noon after a maid found him slumped on the floor.

Cole said that a hypodermic needle was sticking in Schmeidel's right leg below the knee and that a syringe was nearby.

Schmeidel, who was divorced, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Alice Vath, of South San Francisco.

Date Set for SM-SF Talks On Mtn. Buy

Following through on his promise to investigate the joint purchase of San Bruno Mountain by San Francisco and San Mateo counties, Gerald Day, chairman of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, has invited San Francisco officials to meet with representatives of the local board August 17 in San Mateo to discuss the matter.

Suggestions were made at past meetings of the Board of Supervisors and other county commissions that joint purchase be studied as an alternative to allocation of only a portion of the mountain for park and open space use in conjunction with residential and commercial development.

TASK FORCE

Navy Steward Dante A. Magno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dionicio C. Magno of 140 Edgemont Drive, Daly City, is now off the USS Constellation, one of six aircraft carriers which, with supporting ships, comprise the U.S. Navy's largest task force of the Vietnam war.

Jeff High District Slates Signups for 150 Classes

Newly appointed Director of Adult Education Louis J. Martin has announced that 150 classes for adults in the Jefferson Union High School District in Daly City and Pacifica will start registration for the Fall Quarter on Monday, September 18.

During the first week adults must register in class with their instructors.

Five modern high school campuses will be open to accommodate the adult student body; Jefferson and Westmoor, Monday through Thursday evenings; Serramonte, Thursday evening only; in the city of Pacifica Terra Nova, Monday and Wednesday evenings, and Tuesday evenings at Oceana.

There are several Community Locations in Daly City offering primarily sewing classes during the day. They are located in Daly City Recreation Dept. at 134 Hillside Boulevard and in the Bayshore Housing Development at 111 Iwo Jima Road in Bayshore.

An ever-increasing variety of classes is being offered for self-improvement and enrichment in Academics, Business, Education, Fine Arts and Crafts, Foreign Languages, Health Education, Homemaking, Industrial Arts, Music, Driver Training, English As A Second Language, and Preparation for Citizenship.

For adults over 18 years of age seeking a high school diploma a full line of academic and elective courses is available. In addition, for new enrollees in the diploma program a full time counseling and advisory service is available to all adult students to evaluate present academic standing and to assist in preparing a program of courses leading to a high school diploma. G.E.D. and Vocational testing is available through the counseling services.

Horse Show Slated for Cow Palace

The American Horse Show Association of New York has awarded the Hunter Division of this year's Grand National Horse Show at the Cow Palace the coveted "A" classification.

The show will be held October 26 through November 5.

"We're very pleased with the A designation," said Allen Ross, horse show manager. "It is given only to superior shows."

The A rating means winners will gain triple points towards 1972 national championships.

This is the first year the Hunter Division has met the Association's stiff requirements. The deciding factor was the addition of 16 hunter classes, including six for amateur-owners.

"This gives amateur-owners a chance to compete in their own divisions against other non-professionals," Ross said.

In all, there are 30 classes in the Hunter Division — which is divided into regular Conformation Hunter, Green Conformation Hunters, regular Working Hunters, Green Working Hunters, and Amateur-Owner Working Hunters.

DC Takeover Of HMB Tests

August 23, 1972, is the last time that twice-a-month driver licensing service will be brought to Half Moon Bay by a Department of Motor Vehicles travel crew.

The service, offered at the I.D.E.S. Society Hall on Main Street, on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month via a "station wagon office" dispatched by the department from Daly City, is being discontinued.

"Now that DMV's Daly City and San Mateo offices are accessible on good quality roads, the local travel service can no longer be economically justified," DMV Director Robert Cozens said.

"By fully using the same manpower at our regular offices, we can license twice as many motorists as are licensed by travel crews," he stated. "In population density areas with easy access by highway, this is the way to give the taxpayer the most for his dollar."

CARRIER DUTY

Navy Petty Officer Second Class Michael D. Horton, husband of the former Valerie J. Gorzoch of 1062 Hanover Street, Daly City, is now off the Vietnamese coast aboard the USS Constellation, one of six aircraft carriers which, with supporting ships, comprise the U.S. Navy's largest task force of the Viet-

During the past year, more than 50 adults earned a high school diploma with over 2000 students enrolled in the program this year. With the expansion of the adult counseling services and the continuing need for high school diplomas, an even larger number of adults will receive diplomas in the academic year 1972-73.

E.S.L. classes or English as a second language are available to any adult of foreign extraction who desires to learn or improve his use of the English language. The present program offers services to more than 150 adult students. These courses are designed to develop in the non-English speaking student an ability to speak, read, and write in his new language and to become familiar with the culture of his present community. Business Education courses include Bookkeeping and Accounting; Civil Service Preparation; Financial Planning for Individuals and Small Businesses; Typing at all levels and Shorthand. In the Homemaking section courses are available in all aspects of clothing, dressmaking, knitting, patternmaking, and tailoring. Within this section interesting courses in home cooking and Food Preparation, Gardening, and Home Maintenance are available. The popular Fine Arts section offers enrichment in Oil Painting at all levels, Figure Drawing with live models, Acrylics Workshop, Oriental Besh-

Painting, and Portraiture. In addition, Ceramics, Pottery and Sculpture is offered at several locations. Those students who like to work with tools to improve mechanical skills may enroll in Upholstery, Auto Mechanics and Wood Skills on occupational training. They are: Retail Cashiering and Merchandising and other Restaurant and Commercial Food Management.

These and many more courses of general interest are being offered by the Jefferson Union High School District's Adult Division starting the Fall Quarter on Monday, September 18. New brochures are currently available at all adult high school campus locations. Persons who were enrolled during the Spring Quarter will receive a brochure in the mail. Additional brochures are in the city libraries and municipal offices. Registration for the Fall Quarter will start Monday, September 18, and space in class will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. Register during this first week to avoid disappointments in your favorite class.

D.C. Playground Roundup

The Annual Summer Playground Program, sponsored by the Daily City Recreation Department, has reached the half-way mark.

All grounds will continue to remain open through Wednesday, Aug. 23. On Aug. 24, all playgrounds will participate in the culminating day of activity held at Westlake Park.

The theme for this year will be "Whirl Around the World" featuring the "Gimmick Olympics".

Following Aug. 24, grounds will remain closed until school starts with the exception of City Parks. Schedules to be announced.

A. Lincoln — Kathy Albrecht, Mike Rasche, Steve Roche. The "Heavyweight Wrestling Championship" of Abe Lincoln was decided this week. In the advanced division, Eli and Henry Hall were crowned champs in the tag team match. Rich McMahon destroyed all the "Pencil Necks" to win the individual championship. The Junior tag team champs were Bobby Biernat and Robbie Schwindt. The Junior champ was Joey Schoep who destroyed all challengers with a figure four leg lock. The challengers to the crown were Lisa Prado, Douglas Brown, Donald Prater, Philip Prater, and Joey Seitz.

Bike Day was held recently with cyclist Gary Gant winning the Ten speed cross country division. Gary defeated Jeff Gant for the title. In the Sting-Ray Division, Armando Lagunas won the title over Clay Regan, and Jeff Nona.

A barbecue was held which filled the stomachs of such eaters as Doug Dennis, Rene Dowdell, Michael Jones, Judy Jones, Sandy Terrell, Kim Terrell, Richard Chappell, Charly Giolli, Angie Jones, Cassandra Underwood, and Kenyatta White. Greg Schoep was the Chef in charge of the cooking.

The Blackhawks are leading the high sticking Hockey League by two points over the Golden Seals. League leading scorers are Celestus Thorne with 16 goals and Mike Williams with 12 goals. The All Stars from the league are busily preparing for the upcoming battle with the Westmoor Park Stars whom they previously trounced. Everyone should hurry and get their tickets since the game promises to be a sellout.

Last week Crocker School and Frankfort Park put it all together for a fantastic Wednesday. Starting off the day were cartoons, followed by a football game and barbecue, a watermelon feed and topped off with a cartooning class. Other events this week include broom hockey, barbecue, and a ping-pong tournament. Crocker School and Frankfort Park are having a lot of happenings till summer ends. F. D. Roosevelt — Dean Challoos and Ed Darnell Indian Ball has become very popular at FDR with at least one game every day. Indian Ball is a combination of softball and strike out with no base running involved. There can be two or more players on a side.

All the special events at FDR such as movies, cartoons and Arts and Crafts seem to really draw in the local kids along with our playground "regulars." The "regulars" include the Lewis Family: Tony, Yvonne, Evangie, Chico, Jerry, Mike and Emerson, as well as John Pratif and the Johnsons' Steve and Kelly. We are planning a special roller skating trip on Aug. 18 so see your leaders as soon as possible for further information.

Don't forget the "bring your own" barbecue scheduled every Friday, 12-2 p.m.

George Washington—Bill Wyant

At George Washington, we have been having a great time this summer. With barbecues, watermelon and pie eating contests, waterfights (when it's hot), frisbee and carroms contests, plus our weekly trip.

Twenty-five contestants entered the watermelon eating contest with Sidney Greene taking first while Ricky Ojeda and Daryl Grant tied for second.

Speaking of Softball Teams

Several times, over the years, there have been inquiries as to how local softball teams might get publicity in this column. The most obvious answer has always been to let me play on the team.

Since no local softball team has ever, to this point, had publicity in this column, you therefore have some guage as to my softball playing talent.

But now I've got something to write about, because not only has J & J Plumbing of Daly City let me play on their team, but we have won the championship of the D.C. Rec Dept. — due in no small measure, I'm sure, to the slow-pitch league fact that I pulled a hamstring in late season and missed the crucial playoffs. But my first base coaching was terrific.

And if you scoffers think winning that league was a soft touch, you're wrong. J & J had to come from behind three times to win the playoff final against Round Table Pizza, 14-12, and had to go through the regular round robin with only one defeat — a 5-3 decision to Round Table — as well as taking a previous playoff game.

Ironically, the 14-12 finale was the wildest game of the year, as, surprisingly, most of the games ended with scores such as 1-0, 2-1, 6-5. That 5-3 regular season loss to Round Table was, in fact, more indicative of the calibre of play in the league than the 14-12 score.

EVEN IN THAT wild championship game there was a lot of good play, good defense, even a few sharp infield double-plays, including a key one by J & J when Round Table got the bags loaded with one out and the DP prevented them from breaking a tie. What really caused much of the scoring was an unusual low sun at Westmoor Park — unusual in that it's usually obscured by fog — which almost literally blinded third basemen, shortstops and left fielders and allowed many cheapies in the early innings.

If it wasn't that crucial DP, the turning point might have come when the entire left side of the Round Table infield — third sacker Frank Strazullo and shortstop Larry Gotelli — cracked under the pressure midway through the game and took off to play in other games in North Beach.

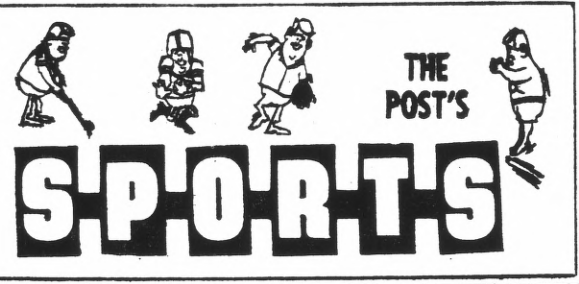

As indicated earlier, winning in a lob-ball league isn't as easy as it may seem, especially if one's total experience in the bat-ball game has been against hard ball fast pitching. The most frustrating thing in baseball, in fact, is trying to properly time a bloop pitch, as any major leaguer will attest to who ever tried to hit against bloop specialist Rip Sewell when he was playing his wares with Pittsburgh in the '40's. Add to that the problem of using a smaller bat to try to hit a heavier ball any distance at all, and perhaps it is easier to understand the reason for the low scores and why defense — at which J & J excelled — is possibly the most important facet of a winning team's armory.

SURPRISINGLY, pitching in such a league is very important, which is another reason why J & J won. We had a left-handed glass cutter, Tracy Redman, who had to be the team's Big Hero. Not only did he lead the team in hitting and probably set several all time assist records for a pitcher — he bounced off the mound so well he gave the team five infielders — but he pitched some masterpieces.

Controlling a lob pitch is difficult, yet Redman walked only one batter — to our recollection — during the entire season, and was the only hurler in the league who could throw a curve ball on a lob pitch. This induced all sorts of funny topped balls and pop-ups.

Redman, however, wasn't J & J's Most Valuable Player. That had to be Jerry Brower, who, despite a bad shoulder and ankle, caught, played second and third, took tow and hit to right, kept score, hauled bats, chased foul balls, managed, continually yelled, "You're playing too shallow," and — most significant of all — is one of the sponsors and as such names the team's Most Valuable Player. Jerry, you see, is one of

Speaking of
Softball Teams

the J's in J & J Plumbing, the other being Joe Monterosso, who caught, played the infield, coached the bases and helped Jerry with the spelling when he made out the lineups. (I hope that clears up the rumors started by competitors that J & J stands for Jesse James.)

Joe played the infield for Mission High in the middle '50's. Jerry played football and ran track for Balboa in the early '50's, which qualifies him eminently as a baseball manager.

Aside from its outstanding pitching and defense, J & J had some other characteristics which might stand as models upon which to build future champions. Most of the players are in the trades, a significant number of them are left handed (Yours truly, Bill Rainey, Redman, Phil Gentile and Gene Townsend — who only bats lefty), and 12 of the 16 men on the roster are 35 or over or dangerously close to it — a few, in fact, are dangerously close to 40 — while Gentile is so close to 30 he's shaved his beard in a desperate move to stop the process.

IN OTHER WORDS, if you're going to stock a softball team, load it with left-handed plumbers over 35.

Strange as it seems there are certain advantages to age in this game. One of them is that with age comes experience. That means that you can stand around and let the three kids on the team — Gary Barton, Bobby Murry and Dave Holland — do all the running, while you direct them. The other is that with age comes injuries, which means that you can use the entire roster, so that everybody gets a chance to play, which dispels with a lot of hard feelings from benchwarmers.

Aside from its innate skill, J & J is also a colorful team to watch. Everybody has his own idea of a uniform. For example, Brower and Ron Parshell smoke cigars while they play, and Jerry also wears a special hat that flashes, "Jerry of J & J Plumbing" every time he comes to bat. Rainey plays only in Big Ben work trousers, and Holland performs in a snow cap.

Just this season, for example, there was this writer's hamstring, Brower's chronic bad ankle and shoulder, Rainey's bad knees and charley horses, Townsend's bad leg, and Monterosso's achilles tendon. Redman also has a bad knee, but plays well with pain.

And then there are other colorful guys, like Joe Bonnici, an ex-paratrooper (he jumped from observation balloons during the Civil War) who yells, "Geronimo," when he slides into bases.

Pacifica Takes Tourney Entries

Entries are now being taken for the annual Pacifica City Tennis Tournament August 12 and 13.

There will be men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, girls and boys events will be divided into two age groups, 8-13 and 14-18 years.

Each event will play a double elimination tournament with a winner and consolation winner for each division.

Participants will be seeded according to experience and ability by the tournament director prior to the event. All contestants will be notified of the time of their first match by telephone on Friday, August 11. The cost is $1 for singles and $2 per doubles team.

Deadline for entries is August 10, 5 p.m. Signups are at the Park, Beach & Recreation Dept., City Hall, 170 Santa Maria, Pacifica.

Daly City Playground Roundup

Following the contest a barbecue was held. Our next cookout will be Aug. 12, everyone is invited. Last Friday, we had a eating contest with cream pies. Needless to say, the contest turned into a wild pie fight at the end. Wayne Henderson and Daryl Kennedy ended up with more pie on their bodies than in their stomachs.

Great fun! But what a mess. At present, we are planning for our participation in the end of summer program at Westlake Park.

Jefferson Elementary—
Pat Vince

Since our last fishing expedition to Angel Island, the demand for another such activity has been overwhelming. As a result, an all day fishing excursion to Lake Merced has been planned for Thursday.

The day will commence at 10:30 when we will depart via foot from Little Jeff to the Lake. Upon arrival, fishing lines will be set up and we will begin our attempts at capturing those slimy, wiggly creatures. Bag lunches will serve as our energy source for the day. At approximately 3:15, we will begin our long hike back to Little Jeff.

Last Thursday, we played Woodrow Wilson in a slugging contest of softball. Ten home runs disappeared over the fences during the game. An especially long homerun was belted by Fred Aimalfoa of Wilson as he nearly demolished the new construction on San Pedro. Stan Dracko, Mike Simon, and Paul Boyd combined for 7 hits for Little Jeff but the rest of the order could amass but four hits. On Friday, there will be a rematch at Woodrow Wilson starting at 1:00 p.m.

Everyday activities, such as carroms, sorry, chess, checkers and various card games still continue to be all time favorites. The carroms board has become the sole pastime of many — Anthony Lybrand, Dick Guma, Lisa Goodman, Glen Kimard, Jorge Ruiz, and Gina and Gloria Garibaldi while it has also provided diversionary activity between softball games for Clay Younger, Robby Romo, Paul, Eddy, and Miek Boyd, George Desperati, and Robin Horton. Mike Simon has become our chess champion easily defeating all contenders within a matter of minutes. His brother Greg is known as our "knuckles" champion finally defeating our infamous card shark from Monte Carlo — The one and only Tom Patrick. However, despite the defeat, Tom's knuckles never came within reach of Greg's line of fire!!!

Junipero Serra—
William Schultz

Junipero Serra's week long chess tournament kept everyone in a suspense equal to that of the Spassky-Fischer competition. Tension rose towards the end of the week as finalists Greg Griffin and Dan Escobedo forced each other on Friday in a 3-game match. Dan finally came out triumphant, winning the first two games and becoming Junipero Serra's first chess champion. Another tournament is planned for a few weeks from now and a competition with Skyline's champ is anticipated. In a carroms tournament Alex

Piazza emerged as undefeated champion. His runner up was 8 year old Maus See-Tho, who had a remarkable winning streak of over 10 successive games. The grand prize of a bottle of Coke reportedly finished off (all 16 ozs.) the same day.

Also, this week the kids took a trip to Angel Island where Henry Messenger showed his expert which was awarded to Alex was fishing skills and caught a 12 inch rock cod which he threw back.

In general life goes on the same as always at the playground. Joe and Tony Anzolini unquestionably hold the record for playing the greatest number of carroms games, which Jeffrey Ternullo holding second place. Richard Martinez still has the most self confidence. Barbecues are held every Friday around lunch time.

M. P. Brown — Joe Boboschi
The M. P. Brown based Hobos of the Daly City High School Softball League continue on their winning ways. Currently tied for second place, the Hobos have received steady pitching from Kirk Autsein and Gary McLane. Gregg Georgakis and Steve Haught have also contributed to the Hobos success with their hitting and fielding.

During the week of 7, signups will be taken for a 2-man strike out tournament to be held the week of Aug. 14. Teams will be scheduled and informed of playing times by the Recreation leader, Rick Wyatt. Ken and Jim Espina as well as other strike out artists, has come up with timely hitting and fielding. Don't forget the barbecue on Friday.

Northridge Park—
Steve Becker

Last week at Northridge Park, the week was highlighted by plenty of football games, croquet matches, and basketball competition.

Wayne Wynn, Gavin Law, Nicky DeLaGosta, Michael Duvenet and many more participants in aggressive football games with scores which reached the 80's. Obviously, we have very few defensive battles.

Interesting competition has been seen on the chess board, stimulated by the world Chess Championship between Fischer and Spassky. Martin Sweet has proved himself as a knowledgeable contestant by defeating each and all comers, including Mike Duvenet. When not competing, Martin is practicing the moves in the championship match between our American and the Russian defending champion.

Olympia — Jeff Orlich

The playground started a new game last Monday called kickball. The game is new because ping-pong and carroms have been more dominated. The game was headed by John Robbins, Ricky Lacuser, and Dean O'Connor. The trip Tuesday to Lake Anza was hot and fun. The fun was enjoyed by all, even Jim Tones, who was thrown into the water.

Palisades Park — Rick Serrato

As always, the carroms tables are in constant use at the park. Among the expert players are Michael Lee, Kim Maken, Steve and Toni Markoff, Virginia Cunningham and the world famous Bufkas. Carroms tournaments to decide the park champion are planned for the coming weeks.

A weekly barbecue is also planned for the remainder of the summer. Bring your own hamburgers and hot dogs. No steaks. The recreation department will provide the chef.

Every Monday and Tuesday morning, a journey is made to Vista Mar School with the recreation leader to see movies and cartoons. Anyone interested should meet at the park at 10 a.m. on those mornings. Movies are 10 cent cartoons free.

A great watermelon eating contest was held at Panorama school last week. Contests for the fastest, messiest, and neatest were held.

There were four divisions, the winner on table one for fastest eater was Ralph Jackson, Stephanie Kolinas, the winner of table two Stephanie Kolinas. Taf of table three and John Romeo, the winner of table four. The winner of the messiest eater on table one was Darrel Jackson, table two Stephanie Kolinas, Table three, Marvin Nareh and on table four Jamie Jackson. The girls girls were by far the neatest eaters, but also doing a fine job were Steve Matson, Mark DiGiovani, and Steve Situm.

Panorama also held a playground ping-pong tournament last week. Dave Lopez proved to be the outstanding high school player. John Accurso was the winner in the younger division. Also playing well were Robert Jefferson, Ralph Macia, Frank Barnes, and Steve Jajah.

Last week's carroms champ was Doug McClusky, Robert Jefferson was the runner up.

Skyline — Recreation Leader:
Suzanne Coleman

The Candous did it again. They are for the second week in a row "strike out champions".

Mike, Cori, and Craig are waiting for Wednesday at noon to hold their record.

Friday, is barbecue day. Every Friday at noon, we have a barbecue. Last week we also held a watermelon eating contest. Winners are Rodney MacAlevey, Marty Wilson, Janice Jacobsen and Kristy Thomas.

Excitement and fulfilled activities describe the past week at Skyline School. Wednesday was our strike out tournament. Champions for the week are Marty, Wilson and Danny Brown. The Hula Hoop contest was also held. The winners are Mike Murray, Debbie Gonzalez, Barbara Murray and Rodney MacAlevey. Congratulations to all. Big mouth of the week is Mike McPartland.

Vista Grande

At Vista Grande this week, the summer recreation program reached its half way point. Nevertheless activities and games rolled along at an ever increasing rate.

In chess, the imperious Bobby, the Fischer, Fambrini, has just dethroned reigning champion Jose Ruiz in the best of the three series. Bobby, the Fischer, time and again bewildered his foe as emerging the new grandmaster at Vista Grande School.

A fine job to head chefs Mildred and Marcella Wetherbee in making the record barbecue a complete success.

In the upcoming carroms team tournament, the Ruiz brothers, Francisco, and Antonio appear as if they will turn the championship into a one team show.

Congratulations to Teddy, the kid, Wetherbee as he fought off enormous odds in placing second in playgrounds Hell and Speed card tournament. Probable victors in the team bicycle relays are Ricky and Kenny Rizzatto. However, pressure is mounting from Wayne Ryan and Kevin Holmes. It will be a fight to the finish line.

The upcoming game of the century between Vista Grande and Little Jeff will be a grand one. Details of the outcome will be posted in the next Vista Grande news release.

Vista Mar — Joel Carrara

This past week of recreation at Vista Mar school has been slightly hampered due to the retiling of the school's bathrooms adjacent to the recreation corridor. Hopefully this will soon be in the past and the facility should be back in full use by following mid-week.

As for outdoor activities, Vista Mar's new broom hockey franchise has been scrimmaging in hopes of playing either A. Lincoln School or Westmoor Park. The roster includes, the Mahoney brothers, Kevin and Dennis, the Restivo brothers, Rick and Mike, Dean Cimino, Tony Cooper, and Tom McNabb.

Our weekly barbecue held each Wednesday, at 12 is a great success. Hot dogs, hamburgers, bologna and fish sticks were the command meals. The weekly "Glutton Awards" were given to Ed Migale, Robert Luz, and Vince Camarato, each eating five hot dogs. But either an imagination or a tapeworm gave Danny Camarato the "Hollow Leg Award" for eating five hot dogs. Plus four fish sticks.

Westmoor Park — Lou Quint

The Westmoor Grand Prix swung into action last week and after the dust cleared, the John Bruno Racing Team lead the standings with 14 points. Followed by the Bloom Racing Team with six.

In other action, the Westmoor Broom Hockey Team began practice for the third and final game of the Samuel-McDonald Broom Hockey Cup Play which will be played against the Abe Lincoln All Stars on Friday at the Westmoor Clubhouse at 1 p.m. A barbecue will follow after the game. Team members are: Goalies Greg Weiner, George Spiliotis, Jim Wolfstrom. Defensemen: Greg Lipnick, Pat McMillan, Craig Bloom, Alan Glenn, Glicito Mananquil, Right Wingers: Craig Candau, Steve Quansstrom, Tony Dekelaita.

The intellectual set is taking over at Westmoor these days as a chess tournament is taking form.

Highlighting the activities was a two day strike out contest. The contest was highlighted by outstanding play by Ramon Balagot, who not only won the contest but picked up most of the special awards. He was the leading hitter not only in base
